FUTURE OF THE LABOUR PARTY.

SENATOR O'FARRELL'S HOPE.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

"The Labour Party has now definitely established itself in the public life of the country, and its policy is commanding support wherever it is known and understood. I have every reason to hope for the return to power of a Labour Government at the next general election."

This was the keynote of the presidential address given by Senator J. T. O'Farrell at the opening session of the Irish Labour Party and Trades' Union Congress, which was held in the Teachers' Hall, Rutland square, Dublin, yesterday.

The slow but steady growth of the Labour Party, he added, was the best guarantee of its permanency and ultimate success.

Referring to the assassination of Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, he declared that political power lay in the hands of the people themselves, and in the circumstances there was no justification, human or divine, for resorting to violence for political purposes.

POLICY OF VIOLENCE CONDEMNED.

INJURING NATIONAL CREDIT.

Mr. P. A. Mungovan, on behalf of the Dublin Workers Council, extended a welcome to the delegates, who represented trade union and Labour bodies from all parts of the Free State and Northern Ireland.

Dealing with the unemployment problem, Senator O'Farrell declared that unemployment was as acute to-day as it was a year ago, and all those who were unemployed should register if they possibly could, so that the Minister for Industry and Commerce could not state in the Dail that the number on the live register was only 18,000, and that that was a fair indication of the total number of workers actually unemployed.

"Even out of the 18,000 on the live registers, only a proportion are in receipt of unemployment benefit. A very conservative estimate would seem to indicate that there are at least 50,000 unemployed workers in the Free State alone, only a small fraction of whom are in receipt of unemployment benefit. It is obvious, therefore, that a veritable mountain of misery and suffering is being endured by tens of thousands of our fellow-citizens and their families. Amongst the unemployed, the feelings of despair and resentment created by the continued failure to secure work or maintenance, and the sense of injury and injustice generated by neglect and obvious lack of sympathy on the part of the National Government, produce a spirit of recklessness which sometimes manifests itself in crime, lawlessness and a marked lowering of moral standards.

"In connection with this vital human problem, the Free State Government has been unfortunate in its choice of Minister. Otherwise able and painstaking, he seems on this question of unemployment, if one is to judge his feelings by the language and tone he adopts, to be more concerned with scoring flippant debating points off his opponents than with devising plans for the relief of thousands of suffering people. He repeatedly and impudently insinuates that unemployment is not nearly as serious as represented by the Labour Party, but that it is merely a handy subject on which to stage a debate in the Dail. He claims that the Free State is one of the six countries affiliated to the League of Nations that has reduced its unemployment since 1922. The position, of course, is that it has very effectively reduced the number of workless people who receive unemployment benefit, which is quite a different thing.

FIVE YEARS' HOUSING PROGRAMME.

"It is true that some employment has been given by grants for housing, for roads and for drainage. These, however, are of an entirely inadequate, ill-regulated and intermittent character, not governed by any fixed policy, and at best have only reached a small proportion of the unemployed, and then only for brief intermittent periods. Moreover, most of these grants have been hemmed in with the most oppressive and vexatious conditions, such as fixing minimum wages on the basis of the most miserable obtaining, and a reservation of a great portion of the work for ex-soldiers, irrespective of the domestic requirements, suitability or general needs of the applicants.

"To be effective, State assistance requires to be carried out according to some well-considered, constructive idea, instead of in a haphazard and rule-of-thumb manner, as is now the case when anything is done at all. Would it not seem to be good statesmanship and good economics to avail of the vast amount of surplus labour caused by the present trade depression, to try and solve one of our biggest social problems—the housing shortage? Is it not possible to raise sufficient money on reasonable terms to tackle a five years' housing programme, conducted on national lines, under the guidance of a National Housing Council, which would take into consideration the requirements of the country as a whole, and embark upon their programme in a national way? By this means materials could be purchased or manufactured in great quantities, and consequently on better terms; houses could therefore be built at a cheaper rate, and let at lower rents. What a beneficial and lasting revolution it would be if the housing problem could be solved, say, within a period of five years! The purchasing power distributed through the employment given would have a quickening effect on industry and commerce generally, and would favourably react on industries other than the building industry. The same remarks apply in a lesser sense to the raising of a substantial loan for road reconstruction and development, on the strength of the Road Fund, which might be utilised to give guaranteed employment to thousands of men for some years, without any addition to national taxation; and also in regard to afforestation, the national need for which is obvious to all, and the return for which would come in due course.

STRENGTHENING THE UNIONS.

"The prevalence of unemployment has quite naturally reacted unfavourably on the numerical and financial strength of many of the affiliated trade unions. In addition, the morale of many organised workers new to the trade union movement has been weakened by the fact that inexorable economic circumstances have compelled the trade unions to fall back upon their defences, and for the present to refrain from forward movements for improvements destined only to end in failure. Taking all the factors into account, however, the general position is by no means unfavourable." The gospel of low wages was still being preached, and a substantial strengthening of the unions was necessary. The Labour movement, he added, had more to gain by the raising of educational standard than any party in the country.

Turning to the political side of the Party's work, Senator O'Farrell expressed satisfaction with the Labour gains at the general election. "There was, during the contest, a marked tendency on the part of a very large number of electors to take a keener interest in discussions on social and economic problems capable of political treatment than in the gloomy prophesies of Government spokesmen as to what would happen if their Party were defeated, and effervescent nonsense indulged in by their Republican opponents. It was abundantly evident to anybody taking an active part in the election that Labour's policy is rapidly gaining converts, and winning support in the constituencies to a much greater extent than is indicated by the election results. The fact that the Labour Party was not able, for financial reasons, to put forward sufficient candidates to secure a majority in the new Dail reacted unfavourably on the election results from the Labour point of view."

"VIOLENCE BEGETS VIOLENCE."

Referring to the murder of Mr. O'Higgins, he said:—"It must come as a rude shock to everybody imbued with even the elements of Christianity and with faith in Ireland's future to find that there are still young men in this so-called 'Island of Saints and Scholars' capable of utilising a peaceful Sabbath morning, in cold blood, armed to the teeth, and with adequate preparations for flight, to waylay a defenceless fellow-Christian and fellow-Irishman on his way to worship the common Creator of all, to fire point blank at his undefended body, and, in order to make no mistake in their awful work, to riddle with bullets his prostrate form, from which his life-blood was already pouring forth in a fatal tide.

"This inhuman outrage is all the more shocking because it comes at a time when we all fondly hoped that deeds of violence and bloodshed were a thing of the past; that we had left all that sort of barbarism behind us and emerged upon the broad, sane highway of constitutional action, as practised by all free and intelligent democracies. There is in the Free State Constitution every opportunity of giving effective expression to demands for constitutional and legislative changes without resorting to violence or illegality. Force begets force, and violence begets violence. One of the immediate results of this latest deed of blood has been the introduction of repressive legislation of almost unexampled severity, unequalled even in the worst days of foreign rule. In the widespread anger created by the murder, and the passions inevitably aroused, the voices of men of peace and good-will find it hard to make themselves heard. One almost inevitable result is that peaceful, law-abiding and industrious citizens may suffer for the deeds of others. The general position of insecurity that is created is highly detrimental to national credit, and hence to industrial and commercial development. The floating of a National Loan is made more difficult and expensive, and this means higher taxation. It means the maintenance of a bigger army, police force and detective division, all of which involves the diversion of public money to non-productive sources at the expense of the general community.

DEMOCRATIC FUNDAMENTALS.

"We cannot claim with any degree of justification to be fitted for self-government, or to take our place among free nations, until we are able to resolve political differences without resort to violence. There seems to be an idea among some of our people that to differ from a person politically one must inevitably become his personal and inveterate enemy. Such an idea might be understandable during a period of civil war, with violence and bloodshed on all sides, but surely in the normal evolution of a civilised State such a mentality cannot be justified, unless we are to revert to semi-barbarity.

"Is it too much to hope that one result of this latest outrage will be to bring closer together all that is best and patriotic and sincere of the various parties in the State, with a view at least to agreeing upon certain broad, democratic fundamentals for the maintenance of constitutional government, without interfering with the right of each party to pursue its own particular programme along constitutional lines? I believe that it is along such lines that the ultimate solution will be found, rather than in ferocious, unconstitutional and panicky legislation which strikes indiscriminately at friend and foe.

"Although the Labour Party differed profoundly from the late Mr. O'Higgins on practically every major question of politics, we must sincerely deplore his untimely end. He was unquestionably a great Irishman, a brilliant statesman, courageous, unselfish; and, although differing from many of his fellow-countrymen as to the choice of road to national greatness, was passionately devoted to his country and prepared to make any sacrifice in her service. The sincere sympathy of all will be extended to his bereaved family, relatives and friends. For the sake of our common country and our common bond of Christianity, we must all hope and pray that this is the last deed of blood that will stain the political life of this land."

Concluding, the President said:—"We must have done with whining pessimism, and brush aside the doleful Jeremiahs who infest the country, and who see nothing but disasters ahead. I see no reason whatever for taking a doleful or pessimistic view of the country's future. It is brimful of possibilities for good. The real problem is the sane and statesmanlike exploitation of these possibilities. The political situation in the Free State is such that at any time Labour may be called upon to assume serious responsibilities of a new kind. Let us conduct our activities with that possibility in mind, so that if, and when, such an occasion arises we may not be found wanting."

On the motion of Miss L. Bennett (Irish Women Workers' Union), seconded by Mr. Carr (Limerick Trades Council), a vote of thanks to Senator O'Farrell for his address was carried by acclamation.

MAYO COUNTY FEIS

DR. GILMARTIN AND EVIL CUSTOMS.

PLEA FOR INDUSTRIES AND LANGUAGE.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
WESTPORT, Monday.

The Mayo County Feis was opened to-day in the Christian Brothers' schools here by the Most Rev. Dr. Gilmartin, Archbishop of Tuam, in presence of a large attendance of competitors and of the general public.

The Archbishop, in opening the Feis, said—One of the great evils of the day is the tendency to break up home life. Even in Ireland there are all kinds of attractions that draw young people away from the old industries and the old domestic pleasures that made the Irish home a little paradise. The making of butter, the baking of cakes, the carding of wool, the spinning of yarn and the knitting of stockings have well-nigh disappeared; and how much domestic happiness has gone with them? Gone almost also are the visiting, the story-tellings and the old Irish dances that brought the hard-worked days to a pleasant close.

The products of machinery have taken the place of the solid and lasting work of the Irish hand. Instead of milk and porridge we have repeated doses of strong tea and white bread. Instead of socks and stockings made of Irish wool we have foreign importations of imitation silk to minister to the vanity of our girls. Instead of visiting and story-telling there are cinemas and night-walking, often with disaster to virtue. Instead of Irish dances we have sensuous contortions of the body, timed to a semi-barbaric music. Instead of hard, honest work there is the tendency to do little for big wages.

The programme of this Feis is just what is wanted to counteract this degeneracy. Hence I have great pleasure in declaring the Feis open. I wish it every success. It will, I hope, confirm both young and old in this resolution—to make Irish the spoken language of the home. It will encourage domestic industries. It will show the public what grace and beauty there are in Irish dances. It will stimulate the home production of the necessaries of life. It will advertise home products.

In conclusion, I would appeal to the people to buy Irish rather than foreign manufactures. I appeal to shopkeepers to stock and make sale of our own goods. I appeal to the boys and girls to come back to the grand old practices of Irish social intercourse. I appeal to them to wear home manufacture, and, finally, I appeal to the clergy to exercise their influence in restoring the language, the industries and the recreations of the people to the standard of a self-respecting nation.

Mr. C. J. W. Waters, national schools inspector, in the course of a lengthy speech in Irish, said that it was true there were some people in the country who were not in favour of Irish, and who appeared to think that the language was not worth preserving. Needless to say, such people were making a huge mistake. If the Irish language was a language without a literature or culture, and a language not older than a couple of hundred years then, perhaps, the revival of it might be a debatable question.

The competitions then began.

IRISH NATIONAL FORESTERS.

ANNUAL CONVENTION IN LONGFORD.

The annual Convention of the Free State section of the Irish National Foresters was opened in Longford yesterday morning.

Anniversary Requiem Mass for the repose of the souls of deceased members of the Order was celebrated in St. Michael's Cathedral at 9.30. The delegates and members of the Longford Branch and a large number of the general public attended the Mass.

The Convention opened in the Foresters' Hall, Bridge street, at 10.30.

Brother Maurice Herbert, High Chief Ranger, Branch William Aylmer, Dublin, in welcoming the delegates, said that the figures in the General Secretary's report showed that the Society in the Free State was in a healthy financial condition, the funds standing at £36,000.

The General Secretary, in the course of his statement, said that since the last Convention three new branches had been established. The Golden Jubilee of the Society would be celebrated in Dublin, where the Society was established, on the third Sunday in August. The total amount of sick benefits paid in the Free State during the year amounted to £4,189, funeral benefits £1,083, medical aid £2,581, grants £320.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

An address of welcome to the delegates was presented by the Longford Urban Council.

Brother Murray said that Senator MacGuinness, the chairman of Longford Urban Council, was a staunch supporter of their Order for a long number of years. He had been of great assistance to them in the building of their hall, and in the welfare of their branch and organisation generally.

Senator MacGuinness said that the address expressed his sentiments and the sentiments of the Council collectively and individually, and, personally, he took the opportunity of thanking Brother Murray for his remarks. He (Senator MacGuinness) had at all times done all that he could for the workingman, and he would continue to do so as long as he was alive.

Miss Lamb, Town Clerk, then read the address.

Brother Lalor (Dublin), High Chief Ranger, proposed a vote of thanks to the Longford Urban Council.

Brother O'Reilly (Longford) seconded, and the motion was passed.

ELECTIONS.

Brothers L. Clarke and Thomas Morris, Dublin, were appointed to deal with the international rules. Brother Maurice Herbert, High Chief Ranger, Branch William Aylmer, Dublin, was re-elected. Brother William J. Geoghegan, Branch W. A. Redmond, Wicklow, was re-elected High Sub-Chief Ranger. Treasurer, Brother J. J. Traynor, Dublin, re-elected; Brothers Thomas Morris and Laurence Clarke re-elected trustees; Brother Daniel Buggy, Dublin, was also elected a trustee. Auditors, Brother Patrick Dunne, Dublin (re-elected), and Brother Patrick White, Wexford. It was left to the Executive Council to decide the venue of next year's Convention.

Brother Buggy, Dublin, proposed a vote of thanks to the Reception Committee, and Brother Quinn seconded.

Brother Murray, Chief Ranger, Longford, responding, said that they were happy to be able to extend whatever hospitality they could to the delegates, and they were glad to know that their efforts were appreciated. He expressed the hope that another Convention would be held in Longford within the next four or five years.

To-day the delegates will visit the Shannon, and a banquet will take place in the afternoon.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

A DRUNKEN JOY-RIDE.

MAN WHOM SERGEANT NEVER SAW SOBER.

(BEFORE MR. KENNY.)

Charged with stealing from a yard in Queen street a mare, cart and harness, the property of John Maxwell, with having them illegally in his possession, and with cruelly ill-treating the animal by driving it at an excessive speed, Edward Ward, no address, pleaded that drink was the cause of it all, he not being used to drinking.

Mr. Kenny (to Sergeant Butterly)—Was he drunk on the occasion?

The Sergeant—Well, to tell you the truth, I never saw him sober in my life. (Laughter.)

The case for the prosecution was that the accused man got the horse and cart by entering the hall-door of 15 Queen street and forcing a door leading to the yard. The story which Ward told the sergeant was that he was standing against a door at 15 Queen street when it opened and he fell into the hall. He saw a horse and cart in the yard and drove it to Blanchardstown and Lucan.

"I did not intend to steal it," said the accused man to the magistrate. "It was the 'ould' beer, sir."

He was fined 10s. for having the horse illegally in his possession and 10s. for driving it at an excessive speed.

A Wellington, New Zealand, telegram states that the first United States Trade Commissioner to New Zealand has arrived there.

ROSCOMMON MEDICAL APPOINTMENT.

MEMBERS OF BOARD OF HEALTH RESIGN.

At a meeting of the Roscommon County Council last Saturday—Mr. M. Brennan, T.D., presiding—a letter was read from the Minister for Local Government with reference to the dispute in connection with the appointing of a woman doctor for Ballinameen dispensary district. The letter stated that the Minister had given special consideration to the proceedings of the Roscommon Board of Health relative to the vacancy. The Minister desired to intimate that he had a definite duty to ensure that the candidate recommended by the local Appointments Commissioners—Dr. Susan O'Carroll—should be appointed to the post, and he found himself unable to allow any undue delay to take place in instituting the necessary legal proceedings, which, he was advised, was now the only alternative open to him. If the appointment were now made by the Board, he would be prepared to take a lenient view as regards remission of any surcharges that might otherwise arise. He requested the Board to call an extraordinary meeting within seven days to deal with the matter.

The Chairman said that he had gone to considerable trouble in this matter with a view to having it settled.

Mr. Jordan, Chairman of the Board of Health, said that the members of the Board had only done what they considered their duty, knowing very well that a woman doctor was not suitable for the district.

Mr. J. D. O'Farrell said that they had been charged with being unreasonable and dishonest in doing what they considered best in the circumstances.

The Chairman said that the Council had the utmost confidence in the honesty of the intention of all the members of the Board.

Mr. John Keaveney said that he had no longer any wish to remain a member of the Board. He thought that they should not allow themselves to be treated like children. He entered the strongest protest against the attempt to coerce them.

THE LAW.

The Chairman said that he was not defending anybody, but he wished to make it clear that what the Board were asked to do was the law, and they were bound by it. They had to keep inside the Act of Parliament, and resignation could not release the members from liability for their acts. The only way that he saw out of the difficulty was for the members to make the appointment under protest.

Mr. Waters—The Government should not consider that we are a corrupt body.

Chairman—That statement was never made.

Mr. Hafferty said that he was proud of the attitude that the Board of Health had adopted.

Mr. McCrann said that the Government passed an Act of Parliament which they kept hanging over their heads to see that they were honest, and he, for one, refused to remain a member of the Board under such conditions.

On the motion of Mr. Drury, seconded by Mr. Donegan, a resolution was passed that the County Council request the members of the Board of Health to continue in the service of the county as such, and, while they appreciated the protest made by the Board against what the Council considered to be an arbitrary law, they hoped that the matter would be allowed to pass over without further delay.

"COERCIVE MEASURES."

At the conclusion of the Council meeting an extraordinary meeting of the Board of Health was held. Mr. Jordan, Chairman, and the members of the Board at the Council meeting attended. Strong protests were made by the members against what they termed "the coercive measures of the Minister," and having, as directed by the Minister's letter, appointed Dr. Susan O'Carroll to the vacant position in Ballinameen, the members resigned from the County Board of Health.

SUB-POSTMASTERS' INTERESTS.

NEED OF CO-OPERATION.

There was an attendance of only some two dozen delegates at the sixth annual conference of the Irish Sub-Postmasters' Union, which was held at Jury's Hotel, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. A. O'Doherty, Howth, presiding.

At the outset of the proceedings the Chairman moved a vote of sympathy with the widow of the late Mr. Kevin O'Higgins.

Mr. J. J. Conalty, Edenderry, who seconded, said that the murder of Mr. O'Higgins was the cruellest outrage, and, worst of all, it was apparently part of a conspiracy. Ireland could not spare any of the brilliant young men who, in face of danger and difficulty, had been legislating for the benefit of the country for the past four or five years. It was a terrible thing to think that the only reward for men like Mr. O'Higgins was cruel murder. That conference had heartfelt sympathy for Mrs. O'Higgins and her young family.

The resolution was passed in silence.

The Chairman said that he was sorry to see such a small attendance at the annual meeting of the Union, whose only reason for existence was to help sub-postmasters in all matters concerning their means of making a living. One might, at least, expect a better response from the sub-postmasters and sub-postmistresses in Dublin and district.

FEWER MEMBERS.

It was quite different at the meetings of the organisation in England and Scotland, where they appreciated the value of co-operation for their mutual advantage. There also had been a slight drop in the membership, and that, too, at a time when a vigorous and active association was never more necessary. Owing to new rules post office business in general was dropping, and all sub-postmasters and sub-postmistresses were feeling the strain. The people who had most to gain by the efforts of the Union were the very people who would not become members, or, if they did join, would not attend the meetings. They saw a great many sub-postmasters, and even more sub-postmistresses, who never thought of the association until they got into difficulty. Then they sent along a five-shilling postal order—sometimes they forgot that part—and expected their cases to be taken up at once.

The conference then discussed a number of resolutions dealing with matters affecting solely sub-postmasters and sub-postmistresses. One condemned the practice whereby, when new appointments are made, the salaries are reduced by 25 per cent. from that to which the volume of work at the office would entitle them

A LURGAN FIRE.

A fire broke out yesterday morning in the dwellinghouse of James Wilson, situate at Wilson's Row, on the Belfast road at Lurgan, and a good deal of damage was done to the kitchen and its contents. The origin of the fire is unknown. Wilson is the caretaker of The Institute, Lurgan.

An appeal had been lodged on behalf of Arthur Harnett, now in Leeds Prison under sentence of death for the murder of Mrs. Isabella Moore at Hemsworth. The ground of appeal is that Harnett was insane when he committed the crime.

AGRICULTURE'S DECLINE.

Farmers Blaming the Government: Plans for a Conference: Linen Industry Depressed: Royal Visit.

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

THE holiday season in Belfast is rapidly coming to a close, and work has been resumed in most of the engineering concerns and factories, while the latest official figures show that there has been a substantial reduction in unemployment throughout the Six Counties. Thousands of visitors left the city last Saturday night for Scotland by the Stranraer and Ardrossan routes, and a good sprinkling of English tourists also took their departure, carrying away with them pleasant memories of their sojourn in Northern Ireland. During the past two or three weeks the weather was favourable, every day having a good share of sunshine, with, however, occasional heavy showers of rain. Generally speaking, the Prime Minister's advice to charge moderate prices has been observed throughout the Northern area, but in some of the seaside resorts the cost of occasional meals in the cafés and restaurants was too high. On the other hand, the tariff in the boarding-houses was reasonable, and good rooms and excellent catering could be got from 6s. to 9s. per day and upwards, according to fancy and inclination. The Glasgow excursionists have nearly all gone, but the Paisley holidays commenced on Saturday, and there was another great influx of visitors and their families from the Clyde side. The various holiday resorts are all well patronised, Bangor, Newcastle, Portrush, and Portstewart being the most popular. The railway companies have given cheap travelling facilities all over their systems, and the recent improvement in their passenger traffic receipts has shown the wisdom of their enterprise. To-day, being the August Bank Holiday, there was a regular exodus of people from the city to the country, in delightful weather.

DECLINE IN AGRICULTURE.

A statement issued by the Ministry of Agriculture during the week-end shows a serious decrease in the area of ploughed land in Northern Ireland as compared with last year. The farmers have been complaining bitterly about the condition of their industry, and numerous branches of their official organisation have condemned the Government for its alleged indifference to their fate. From time to time the Prime Minister and other leaders have detailed all that has been done for agriculture in Ulster, but the farmers judge conditions by their diminishing profits, or want of them, and blame the Government accordingly. Some of them are very outspoken in their comments, and declare that they have been made serfs to England. The "unbought tenants" have raised an outcry against their treatment, and compare their condition with that of the farmers in the Free State, who obtained much better terms in connection with the purchase of their lands. Tillage in the Six Counties has diminished by 20,000 acres this year, of which 10,500 acres are included in the area under oats, while the turnip crop has decreased by 3,500 acres. A further reduction of 4,000 acres has taken place in the area under flax, which is this year the smallest ever sown in Northern Ireland, notwithstanding all that the Government's research department has done to encourage its cultivation. These figures are disquieting in the message they bear; for it must be borne in mind that, with a reduced area of ploughed land, there is also less employment, and displaced labourers have either to seek jobs in the towns or emigrate to distant lands.

DRIFTING INTO BANKRUPTCY.

The decrease in the area under tillage has been accompanied by a decline of 2,329 in agricultural horses, the number of these animals working on farms this year being, like the acreage under flax, the lowest ever recorded in the North. With regard to live-stock generally, there has been an increase of 30,943 as compared with last year, and as the cattle population of the province has steadily declined since 1922, the present substantial advance in the figures is specially welcomed. The official record seems to prove the contention of the farmers as to the parlous condition of their industry. The agricultural community of Ulster are keen to take advantage of every opportunity to improve their farms, but for some years past they have been struggling against adverse circumstances, and, according to themselves, many of them are on the verge of ruin. They have looked to the Government for help, and their solitary representative in Parliament has advocated their cause unceasingly when the House was in session, but the fiat has gone forth that no more can be done for them, and that they must just help themselves.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Ulster Farmers' Union, a few days ago, the principal business was the consideration of the present condition of agriculture, and the Committee expressed the view unanimously that unless something very drastic is done to remedy matters the countryside will drift into bankruptcy. It was stated that the outlook for many farmers is hopeless, in consequence of heavy rates, increased cost of production and low prices for produce. The same story of distress and depression has been told in almost every district throughout the province, but little or nothing has been done to prevent disaster.

Left to fend for themselves in their struggle, the Northern farmers have decided to approach the National Farmers' Union of England with the object of holding a conference representative of the whole industry, in order to formulate a comprehensive policy calculated to remove some of their burdens.

ROYALTY AND THE NORTH.

The visit of Princess Helena Victoria to Belfast gave much pleasure to all sections of the community, and she received a most cordial welcome wherever she went to perform her public engagements. Her deep interest in the welfare of the people has made her popular with everyone, and her brief stay in the North has strengthened the bonds of friendship and loyalty which bind Ulster to the Empire. Apart, however, from personal devotion to the Royal Family, the people of the North do not pay much attention to spectacular display. They are too practical for such things and lack the romanticism and imagination which are dwindling influences in the life of the Southern Irishman. Even when the King opened the Northern Parliament, six years ago, business was carried on as usual on that day of days. It is one of the ironies of fate that the North, which is indifferent to brilliant demonstrations—with the one exception of the "Twelfth"—should get all the Royal favours, while the South, with its love of pageantry and the picturesque, should now be so poor in such functions.

DEPRESSED LINEN INDUSTRY.

The linen industry is still in a depressed condition, and the outlook is not at all promising. One of the biggest spinning companies in the North has been unable to pay any dividend on its ordinary shares this year, and reference was made at its annual meeting to the fact that stocks have been further depreciated by the dumping of a large quantity of yarns at low prices on the British market in November last by the Soviet Government without benefiting any branch of the trade. It was also pointed out that the price of flax has risen from £62 10s. per ton at the beginning of the year to £115 per ton, and the volume of business done with America is disappointingly small. Representations have been made to the Imperial Government on several occasions to obtain some protection in the home markets for the Irish and Scottish linen trade under the Safeguarding of Industries, but so far without success, although lace and some other businesses have been protected to a certain extent.

In this matter the Northern Government is absolutely helpless, as it is not permitted to interfere in such matters, and it seems strange that one of Ulster's staple industries should have to run the risk of extinction because of British indifference. The Northern Government can give a grant-in-aid for advertising, but otherwise it is impotent. People interested in the trade wonder why the Prime Minister and his Cabinet do not impress on the imperial authorities the gravity of the situation and insist on remedial measures. In the meantime the unfortunate shareholders have to endure hardships and sufferings. Your correspondent is aware that hundreds of gentlewomen, including many widows, have been reduced in their circumstances to a condition bordering on poverty through depression generally in the linen industry, but they have no one to champion their cause. It is time that the Northern Government in this matter was up and doing. Of course new fabrics have come into competition with linen, but those who have studied the subject believe that, with the introduction of new processes and variety and daintiness in design and colourings, it can regain its ancient predominance.

DIFFICULT TO UNDERSTAND.

A small party of American lady students spent a happy time in Belfast during the week-end, and were delighted with the scenic beauties of the North, but they expressed their preference for Dublin, one of them stating it was more like home than anywhere they had visited in England or Wales. To them Belfast seemed more like an English city than the Southern capital, with the old-world atmosphere. What these visitors from across the ocean cannot understand is why the people of a tiny country like Ireland, with its four millions odd of inhabitants, cannot compose their differences and work together for the common prosperity. Strangers to our shores point out that in the United States and in Canada the people of various nationalities and religions seeking new homes gradually become blended in the nation, whereas in Ireland differences have been accentuated throughout the centuries. Of recent years, however, a happier spirit has been manifested, and the Judges of Assize have paid tribute to the growing good-will and tolerance which is being exhibited by all sections of the community. May it continue to develop.

A full meeting of owners of racehorses was held at Leopardstown Racecourse yesterday, and the following resolutions were passed:—

IRELAND AT THE EISTEDDFOD.

DUBLIN AND CORK CHOIRS TO COMPETE.

MR. J. J. WALSH TO BE "INITIATED."

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

The choice of Holyhead as the place of this year's Welsh National Eisteddfod made Irish participation convenient. The opportunity has been seized by three Irish choirs and some individual entrants in musical competitions.

Ancient bardic ritual is preserved in the Eisteddfod ceremonies, and the national language and literature are cultivated in this annual festival, as well as special national forms of music-making and folk-dancing. General culture is encouraged by competitions in music and arts and crafts. In recent years the stimulation of a Welsh dramatic movement has taken prominence, and is given a new turn this year by the preparation of a performance in Welsh of Ibsen's pageant play, "The Pretenders."

The Eisteddfod opened yesterday. Holyhead itself and all the towns and villages of Anglesey are crowded with visitors and competitors, most of whom booked accommodation months in advance. Those who were late in making arrangements have found themselves obliged to seek far afield, and their difficulty is complicated by the fact that all the North Wales resorts are crowded by the normal rush of Bank holiday week visitors, apart altogether from those who are interested in the Eisteddfod.

To-day's arrangements include a portion of the bardic ceremonies, and will include the initiation of Mr. J. J. Walsh (Free State Minister for Posts and Telegraphs) to the Gorsedd circle as a representative of the Irish branch of the Celtic family. The invitation was given in the first place to President Cosgrave, who asked Mr. Walsh to deputise for him.

COAL STRIKE HITS CHOIRS.

The various competitions have attracted wide support, though the choral competitions have been weakened by the absence of many noted choirs in South Wales. The districts which support those choirs were hard hit by last year's coal strike and the consequent economic depression, and the choirs have been unable to undertake the long journey to the northern extremity of Wales. The accession of Irish competitors, however, is some compensation.

The total number of entries in the competitive sections is 2,359, of which 671 belong to the musical side and 939 to the literary side. In addition there is an arts and crafts section.

Accommodation is provided for audiences of 15,000 persons. The principal competitions take place in a huge marquee erected on the edge of the town. Holyhead, by the way, figures in the official documents of the Eisteddfod under its Welsh name, Caergybi.

The chief choral competition, in which the first and second prizes are £150 and £50, will take place to-morrow afternoon, when Mr. Winston Churchill will be president of the session. A Dublin choir, the Culwick Choral Society, conducted by Miss Florence M. Culwick, is one of three entered for this competition. The others are Doncaster Choral Union and Hereford Harmonic Society. Three test pieces are set: (a) "As Vesta was from Latmos Hill descending" (Weelkes); (b) "The Phantom Caravan" (Hopkin Evans)—these two to be sung unaccompanied—and the chorus, "Come, ye daughters," from Bach's St. Matthew Passion. Sir R. R. Terry heads the list of five adjudicators.

IRISH ENTRIES.

Miss Culwick has entered a choir also in the competition for ladies' choirs not exceeding 50 voices. This competition is fixed for 10.45 to-morrow morning, and will be judged by Dr. David Evans and Sir R. R. Terry. Another Irish choir entered for the same competition is St. Vincent's Convent Cecilian Choir, Cork, conducted by Miss Mary Keller. Choirs from Birkenhead and Doncaster are included in the total of seven competing choirs. Two-part songs, one of them unaccompanied, are the tests.

For the second choral competition, on Thursday afternoon, there is yet a further Irish entry. The Phibsborough Musical Society, conducted by Mr. Wilfrid Brown, will wage the contest with the Brymbo District Choral Society and the Birkenhead Welsh Choral Society. Having sung in Irish at the Feis Ceoil in Dublin, the Phibsborough Choir will now sing in Welsh before a Welsh audience, for the first test is a setting by Vaughan Thomas of a Welsh version of the poem, "How sleep the brave." This, and the madrigal, "While the bright sun" (Byrd), have to be sung unaccompanied. The third test is Elgar's chorus, "The Challenge of Thor." Mr. Granville Bantock is one of the five adjudicators.

On Thursday, also, will occur competitions for which there are various individual Irish competitors. Miss Kitty O'Doherty is entered in the competition for accompanists. In the senior pianoforte solo competition, on Thursday morning, the names entered include Gerard Shanahan, Eileen Braid and Dorothy Stokes, and in the viola competition to follow it Annie O'Connor, Terry O'Connor and Maude Davin. On Thursday afternoon, Eleanor Reddy's quartet is numbered among the entries in the string quartet competition, and Terry O'Connor and Geraldine Costigan are names entered under the contralto solo heading.

For the senior violin competition on Friday morning, in which the test is a Mozart concerto, the names entered include Frances O'Donovan, Rosalind Dowse and Maude Davin.

Gerard Shanahan has been engaged to play at one of the evening concerts under Eisteddfod auspices.

It was to vocalists that Mr. Granville Bantock at the 1926 Feis Ceoil addressed his suggestion that they should seek honours at some of the competitive festivals "across the water," but it is in the instrumental department of the Eisteddfod that Irish entries now are strongest.

The elaborate programme of the Eisteddfod covers the whole week. In the brass band competition, which is the chief event of Saturday, the concluding day, Ireland is not interested.

ADDRESS BY MR. J. H. THOMAS, M.P.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, M.P., addressing the Eisteddfod yesterday, said that whatever advantage there might be from those annual gatherings there was nothing that stood out more clearly than the fact that they met together and fraternised regardless of class, creed or politics. If they were to accomplish all they wanted it could only be by recognising that no class, party, or section possessed a monopoly of brains. If that were true of a gathering of that kind it was abundantly true of the position of the country to-day. He did not recognise class hatred, and refused to believe that there was any one class better than another. He was convinced that in the present troubled period there was no short road to a solution. But, if, instead of ill-will and hatred there was a common desire to understand each other's difficulties everyone would be better for it.

MR. J. J. WALSH'S IMPRESSIONS OF THE FESTIVAL.

Mr. J. J. Walsh, the Free State Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, who received an enthusiastic Celtic greeting when he was introduced to the Eisteddfod audience yesterday afternoon, informed an Irish Times representative that he had merely come there in a private capacity to learn something from the great Welsh Eisteddfod.

"I must say," he said, "that I have been deeply impressed, not only by the enthusiasm of the great crowds for their music and art and literature, but by what seems to be the patriotic spirit of the Welsh people. The national characteristics of the people are more deeply ingrained here than is the case in my own country. I cannot but feel a deep sense of satisfaction at the knowledge that the festival is being so very largely patronised by the Irish people. I regard this as a clear and definite indication of the growth of internal Celtic fellowship between two peoples who have inherited the spirit of true patriotism of their country and their language

"I have been particularly impressed by the large number of rural choirs which have taken part in to-day's competitions. This is an example which might, with considerable benefit, be emulated by the Irish people, because I believe that it is through the rural choirs that we can get the great choral societies which have for so many years been a feature of Welsh music. I was also greatly struck by the great preponderance of Welsh which I heard spoken, which I regard as proof of the fact that the Welsh are supremely proud of their native tongue, and are as keenly desirous of preserving it."

IBSEN IN WELSH.

At night, when the Welsh translation of Ibsen's "The Pretenders" was performed, it was in the presence of an enthusiastic audience of ten thousand.

Yesterday's competitions were marked by the very high standard of singing in the competition for rural choirs, as may be judged by the fact that Twyning Choir, from Carnarvonshire, obtained no less than 93 marks out of a possible 100.

Miss Ethel Ball, of Waterloo road, Dublin, divided the prize of £20 for "any animal showing movement in marble, bronze or plaster."

For a luncheon set, embroidered, Mrs. Keown, Nellock, County Fermanagh, secured second prize.

EXCITING RESCUE SCENES.

HOW OLD DONEGAL MAN WAS SAVED.

Exciting rescue scenes took place off the North-West Donegal Coast, opposite Bo Island, during the week-end, when an elderly man, Connel McBride, of Middletown, Gweedore, Donegal, had a narrow escape from drowning. While in quest of sand eels he waded into one of the treacherous pools, which are such a menace to bathers. He quickly disappeared; but three young men, Bernard McCole, Peter Boyle, and John McGarvey, who were also engaged in the same occupation in the vicinity, were attracted by the gurgling sound. One of the trio, without divesting himself of his clothing, jumped into the deep pool, and caught hold of the drowning man

As the tide had now begun to ebb the rescuer found himself in a dangerous position; for neither of his comrades was able to go to his assistance. The idea of cutting up their coats, and tying them into strips, suggested itself, and by this device contact was formed with the struggling men. When brought ashore the old man was found to be apparently drowned; but after artificial respiration had been resorted to he recovered somewhat, and was conveyed home.

IRELAND.

Many holiday accidents are reported. In Ireland there were four deaths and in Great Britain seven.—(Page 8.)

In opening the Mayo County Feis yesterday, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Tuam (Most Rev. Dr. Gilmartin) dwelt on the importance of reviving the Irish language and social customs and encouraging home industry.—(Page 4.)

In the course of his presidential address at the opening session of the Irish Labour Party and Trades Union Congress, which was held in Dublin yesterday, Senator J. T. O'Farrell said that he had reason to hope for the return to power of a Labour Government at the next general election.—(Page 4.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Two members of the Royal Air Force were killed in an accident which occurred at Farnborough.—(Page 7.)

Mr. J. J. Walsh, Irish Free State Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, was introduced to the audience at the Eisteddfod in Holyhead yesterday, and received a cordial welcome. In an interview he was enthusiastic about the festival and the devotion of the Welsh people to their language, music and literature.—(Page 5.)

Ten men were entombed in a Scottish colliery near Glasgow yesterday. After seven hours' strenuous rescue work two were found to be dead and the other eight seriously injured.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

At Montreal yesterday Mr. Baldwin made an important statement on Empire trade.—(Page 7.)

Following a boating disaster on a lake in which 56 lives were lost, many Sumatran natives have reverted to paganism, and have sacrificed a boy to the god of the lake.—(Page 7.)

At Ripon Obvious won the Great St. Wilfrid Plate.—(Page 13.)

The Horse Show.

The Dublin Horse Show will be opened at Ballsbridge to-day. Since the war this famous function has been growing steadily in popularity, and last year all previous achievements were excelled. The entries were the highest number on record; the attendance was without parallel in the history of the Royal Dublin Society, and favourable weather completed the success of the Show. This year, despite recent events, even last year's "records" seem to be in danger. Entries are larger than ever. Great numbers of overseas visitors have been arriving in Dublin during the last week, and many more are expected to arrive to-day. The seating accommodation at Ballsbridge has been increased considerably by the erection of a new stand in the jumping enclosure, and the weather forecasts are full of promise. All the omens, therefore, are propitious. Dublin during the last few days has been recapturing some of her old glories. Most of the hotels are crowded, and the streets are filled with gay throngs. Lovers of horses from all parts of Europe have come to the Irish capital; for they know that where bloodstock is concerned Ireland still is supreme. Buyers have arrived not only from England, but from Switzerland, Germany, Belgium and France; and it seems to be likely that last year's sales, which amounted to the gratifying sum of over £86,000, will be at least equalled.

When the change of Government took place in Dublin pessimists declared that the Horse Show was "finished." In the old days it was supported strongly by the British Army in Ireland, and the Viceregal Court gave it a social cachet which rivalled that of Ascot. The departure of the Army and the end of the British régime undoubtedly damaged the Horse Show, but not for long. Threatened with heavy loss and faced with the most formidable difficulties, the Royal Dublin Society refused to despair. On the contrary, it set out to improve its premises, to increase the popular, as well as the technical, attractions not only of the Horse Show, but also of the Spring Show, and to promote by every means in its power the economic and social interests of the new State. Its success has been remarkable. The Society's membership has grown so rapidly that it has reached almost unmanageable proportions. Its base has been broadened to make room for every national interest; and to-day the Royal Dublin Society enjoys the respect and the admiration of all good Irishmen. The horse-breeding industry is one of Ireland's most valuable assets. Its yield in hard cash is considerable, and it is the parent of a number of ancillary industries of much importance. Every citizen who passes the turnstiles at Ballsbridge this week, therefore, is contributing his share towards the economic recovery of his country; for trade follows the horse in Ireland, and Horse Show week is Dublin's harvest.

One of the most attractive features of this year's Horse Show will be the military jumping competitions, which were started twelve months ago with conspicuous success. Ireland loves a uniform, and last year's spectacle of some of the world's finest horsemen in rivalry over the famous jumps at Ballsbridge will not be forgotten readily by those who witnessed it. This year the representatives of the Swiss Army, who won the Aga Khan's Cup last August, have come back to defend their trophy. They will be challenged by the armies of Britain, Belgium and the Irish Free State, and keen competition is assured. Since the last Show the Free State team, which came second to the Swiss on that occasion, and impressed everybody by its smart performance, has gained in experience. It has competed at Olympia, as well as at certain Continental shows, and is likely to give an excellent account of itself on Friday. By the promotion of this competition the Royal Dublin Society has done a national service. The good fellowship that was established last August between the representatives of the British and Free State Armies gladdened the hearts of all patriotic Irishmen; for it was a symbol of a great act of healing. This year, we hope, the Free State team will win, but, win or lose, its young horsemen will be cheered by thousands who never imagined that they would support the fortunes of a green uniform. Old prejudices on the one side and on the other are dying rapidly, and the Royal Dublin Society has played a leading part in their destruction.

Russia's Pariah Children.

One of Mr. T. M. Healy's raciest speeches in the House of Commons was inspired by Burmese affairs at a time when the ex-King Theebaw was giving trouble to the British authorities. Mr. Healy complained of the lack of official news from Burma. Some weeks previously, he said, a scanty telegram had informed Whitehall that "Theebaw was drinking heavily." A fortnight later another telegram announced, "Theebaw is drinking still," and the veil of silence had fallen once more. To-day a like veil hides Soviet Russia from the eyes of Europe. We learn much of the Bolshevist Government's mischief-making in China, but of the fortunes of the Russian people—the dumb millions whom the handful of noisy Commissars controls—we learn hardly anything. We have a general knowledge that they are poverty-stricken and discontented, crushed in mind and body by a most savage tyranny: the detail which would print the picture vividly on our minds is lacking. Sometimes, however, the report—smuggled through a Baltic State—of some new Soviet decree lifts a corner of the veil, and we get a moment's glimpse of domestic Russia under Bolshevist rule. The latest glimpse reveals that most horrible of all hells—a hell populated by forlorn and desperate children. The founders of Bolshevism, knowing that family life was the main prop of religion and social order, declared war deliberately on the home. Hosts of children, torn from their parents, were sent into distant provinces, where they were left to their own miserable devices. In 1921 and 1922 some 100,000 children were "evacuated" from the Volga provinces by the Soviet authorities, and nearly three-quarters of them were "lost." To this army were added large numbers of children who, during days of fighting and famine, strayed from their homes or were abandoned by their parents. In 1923 Soviet Russia had 250,000 homeless children, and in the last three years the number has fluctuated between 200,000 and 300,000. Most of the little outcasts have found their way to the cities and large towns, and others congregate along the railways. Begging and stealing, they live the lives of pariah dogs. The problem has become so formidable that recently the Government has attempted to "round up" these children in Soviet "homes" and camps, or to induce peasant householders to adopt them in return for a small payment. Progress in this direction has been so slow that now the Government is making a further effort. The Commissariat of Education at Moscow invites help from the "general public" in a campaign to restore lost children to their homes, and has published in its weekly journal the names of 50,000 children whose parents are anxious to recover them. The chances, however, are slight; for thousands of the strayed and deported children have perished and many of them do not remember their own names. So the veil, having risen for a moment, drops again. Bolshevism "is drinking still"; but this glimpse, with other recent glimpses, suggests that the liquor begins to pall.

Sir Harry Johnston.

When we read the spacious life story of Sir Harry Johnston we feel that the gates of opportunity are closing. It fell to Johnston to explore vast regions, to range in adventurous and scientific enterprises over a little known continent, and to take a leading part in the adding of vast territories to the Empire's dominions. In 1883, when he was but a youth, he met Stanley in the Congo and won his admiration. He led an expedition, appointed by the British Association, to the heights of Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest mountain. Under the British representative at Zanzibar he made scientific investigations and treated with barbarous tribes. As Vice-Consul in the Cameroons he dealt sternly with the savage chief, Ja-Ja of Opobo, and in 1889 he negotiated for Britain concerning the spheres of British and Portuguese sovereignty in Central Africa. He fought against Arab slave-drivers in the highlands above Lake Nyasa, and with Rhodes raised the British flag over the territory that bears his comrade's name. Later he served in Tunisia and again in Uganda; and when, for reasons of health—for this giant of activity always was delicate—he retired from the Consular service in 1901 at the age of 43, he possessed such knowledge of the Dark Continent as never before inhabited one man's mind. His writings on Africa fulfilled the saying that ever from Africa comes something new. His peculiar command of African tongues enabled him to throw floods of light on the science of language; and, if his theories sometimes were a little extravagant, they were always suggestive, as when he traced in the position of the verb in Celtic the influence of the Mediterranean stock that he had studied in the land of the Berbers. The unexplored world has shrunken—largely through his efforts—to such dimensions as will not admit the toils of another Johnston. It is not uncommon for men of action of his calibre to possess a lighter imaginative vein. In later years Sir Harry wrote a series of novels in which he constructed the lives of later generations of Dickensian characters and of people appearing in one of Mr. Shaw's plays. Here he was a pioneer in letters as he had been in life. Other novelists, perhaps, will seek to tell us how the Newcome family fared in the new era, what became of Oliver Twist in middle age, and how modern ecclesiastical and domestic problems are being solved in Barchester.

Poultry Profits.

That the keeping of poultry might be rendered far more profitable than it is at present in Ireland is a commonplace. Small care is taken to maintain pure stocks; good feeding stuffs are grudged, and crowded hen-houses and exiguous hen-runs are allowed to foster lethargy in the birds. A poor egg yield is the natural result, and it is safe to say that a reform of these faults would increase productivity in eggs by more than 20 per cent., and would ensure higher saleability in the birds themselves. Experiments with poultry that are being carried out by the British Ministry of Agriculture and the Agricultural College at Wye, Kent, are described in an interesting report. The aim of the tests is to discover the best methods of feeding and marketing, at all times of the year, of birds raised as a by-product on commercial egg farms. Surplus cockerels springing from those breeds which are kept primarily for egg production may prove a loss rather than a gain if they are not marketed at the appropriate time. The experiments dealt with the White Leghorn, White Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red and Light Sussex breeds. When all details of hatching, rearing and feeding, and the expenses involved, were considered, it was found that the production of Petits Poussins proved remunerative during the spring, and even up to June. Birds weighing one pound apiece when eight to ten weeks old realised as much as 3s. apiece in March and April; but the price fell to 1s. 3d. and 1s. 8d. in June. Even the Leghorn cockerels proved profitable when sold at this stage, although, when kept longer from the market, they compared unfavourably with heavier breeds. In the case of green or unfatted chickens, Light Sussex and White Wyandottes yielded the best results. Rhode Island Reds cost more to produce per pound live weight, and did not reach the same satisfactory weights.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A depression over North-East France is expected to move north-east to Germany, while an anticyclone north-east of the Azores spreads eastwards to Europe. Slight secondary troughs, associated with a nearly stationary depression north-west of Scotland, will probably move north-east across the British Isles and cause local showers, possibly accompanied by thunder, but considerable sunny periods are probable, and in the South of England fine weather is expected to predominate.

Ireland, all Districts.—Moderate winds, mainly from south-west; local showers, possibly accompanied by thunder; sunny periods; visibility good; moderate temperature.

South-West Seaboard.—Wind north-west, backing to between west and south-west, light to moderate, mainly fine and sunny; perhaps a few local showers; visibility moderate to good; sea slight.

Rest of Irish Seaboards.—Wind between south-west and west, moderate to fresh; local showers, possibly with thunder; sunny periods; visibility good; sea moderate.

LONDON LETTER.

THE GENEVA DEADLOCK.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The postponement of the Naval Limitations Conference at Geneva was regarded as a hopeful sign here to-day, and the possibility of agreement is not considered to be as remote as it appeared to be last Saturday. It is thought that the United States authorities have recognised that it will not do to give a summary rejection to the British proposals, as it was suggested that President Coolidge had done. It is true that they may be dismissed in the end, but they are worthy of some consideration, and, once that is given, it may end in an agreement of some kind, though it may be only of a temporary character. There was little news from Geneva of any kind to-day. It was understood in diplomatic circles that negotiations still were in progress.

A Balkan Debt.

Arrangements are now being made to settle the last debt of the Allies due to the British Treasury (Russia, of course, being excepted), and it is hoped that they will be concluded satisfactorily during the next few weeks. The ally is Yugo-Slavia, and the advances made by Great Britain during the war amounted to nearly £30,000,000. It is said that generous terms are being offered to the Government at Belgrade, and that the early payments will be small, rising, as in other cases, until they reach the maximum.

The Empress Marie.

Little has been heard of the Empress Marie of Russia since the death of Queen Alexandra, but she has been living in the little seaside home in Denmark, a property shared with her late sister. News now comes that she is gravely ill, and that there is considerable anxiety among her relatives; for she is in greatly advanced years. A report is sent daily to the King as well as to other relatives, giving full details of her condition.

London's Electricity.

Steady progress is being made with the great electrification scheme initiated by the Government, and at midnight a silent change was made throughout the West End of London in connection with the changes in distribution. The change over took place without a hitch; for it was simply a matter of pulling switches and using for the first time cables which had been laid in readiness during the past few months. It is an important step, however, towards the standardisation of the electricity supply under a national system on which hopes of a great reduction in cost depend. The new mains were laid, and one hundred tons of new machinery placed by the side of the old in readiness for the change.

Bank Holiday.

London has had a most miserable day. The rain started to fall softly about nine o'clock, and later fell steadily for hours without a break. It was sad to see parties of excursionists from the provinces drifting about the streets or taking shelter in doorways, many being family groups with children. Crowds of holiday-makers left London early in the morning for the seaside, and the railway officials were astounded at the number after the tremendous outpouring of last Saturday. Cheap excursions were run to many places, and it was possible to spend the day at Brighton for four shillings; so it is not surprising, perhaps, that a ticket collector at Victoria remarked that "the more we sent away, the more there are to go." The indoor places of entertainment must have had a great day; for queues gathered in the West End as early as eleven o'clock for the matinée performances, and new queues formed up as soon as the earlier ones had entered the theatres for the evening.

At the Seaside.

Week-end visitors to the principal holiday centres who returned to London this evening brought reports concerning the over-crowded state of the coast towns, which, in most cases, were extremely quiet until a few days ago. The usual congestion which occurs in August is more pronounced than ever this year, owing to the inclement weather conditions in the earlier months. The desire of everybody to get away at the same time is inconvenient to the railway companies, to the proprietors of hotels and boarding houses, and also to the holiday-makers themselves. For years the railways have been urging the advantage of earlier holidays, and, after the example of this year's overcrowding, more people may be encouraged to take holidays in June or July than hitherto.

August Weather.

August, on the average, is the warmest month of the year, and the highest shade temperature ever officially recorded in this country—100 degrees—was reached at Greenwich on August 9th, 1911. Only once since the war has there been a reading of 90 degrees, while in six years the thermometer has not reached the 80 mark. In six out of the last eight Augusts frost on the ground has been reported, the record being broken with 25 degrees in 1921. August is not a dry month according to the records; for over England and Wales, as a whole, it is wetter than in January, and nearly as wet as in November. Sunshine, too, is less abundant than in either June or July, the loss in most places amounting to between a quarter of an hour and half-an-hour a day. The present year seems likely to provide a series of records of its own so far as the weather is concerned, particularly as regards the rainfall.

An Irish Marathon.

"Olympian," in the Evening Standard to-day, says that no one in the South had any doubts about the success of Sam Ferris, the fresh-coloured, smiling Irish lad, who is in the Royal Air Force at Uxbridge, in the Marathon championship held this year in the North. He won over the Lancashire and Cheshire roads from Fallowfield quite as easily as he had scored three times in succession over the Windsor Castle to Stamford Bridge course. The last time he ran at Manchester a mistake en route cost him the race. He made no such error this time, and all that was left for speculation was who should finish second to him. On form and condition he is easily our outstanding performer over the punishing Marathon course, and, with him to lead our team at Amsterdam next year, there is every reason to feel optimistic about Great Britain's chances.

A Survival.

In these days toll-gates have all but disappeared from the highways of this country, but there is still one in the London district. It is situated at College road, Dulwich, on the Dulwich College estate, and is on the direct route from Central London to the Crystal Palace. Toll always has been levied on cars and other vehicles, and the schedule still announces that sheep and cattle are charged a halfpenny per head. Few sheep or cattle pass the gates nowadays, but many motor cyclists use the route, and hitherto these have paid no toll. From to-day, however, they will be added to the toll list, the levy being threepence for every motor cycle.

TRADE WITHIN THE EMPIRE.

MR. BALDWIN ON THE NEED OF DEVELOPMENT.

PUBLICITY AND RESEARCH.

VALUABLE RESULTS ACHIEVED ALREADY.

Mr. STANLEY BALDWIN in a speech at Montreal yesterday spoke of the importance of developing trade within the Empire and of the steps that have been taken with that object.

He had no doubt, he said, that the word "British" on goods had acquired a real sales value and that in time the practice of asking for Empire goods would become ingrained in the people.

EMPIRE TRADE.

PUBLICITY AND RESEARCH.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

MONTREAL, Monday.

Mr. Baldwin was entertained to lunch at the Canadian Club here to-day. He dealt with the ways and means of developing Empire trade.

Speaking of the Empire Marketing Board, he said that the mysterious arts of the novel craft of publicity were being made to create a consciousness of the obligations of Empire and of the obligation of every individual to his fellow-subjects across the seas. The first step was to create an atmosphere of scientific co-operation between Canada and Great Britain.

"The fact that you have a hen that will lay ten times its own weight in eggs in a year," he declared, amid laughter, "is of interest to any country so devoted to bacon and eggs as my native land"

RESEARCH.

The British Cabinet Committee on Civil Research had a body of scientists experimenting in the detection of minerals below the earth's surface, without the painful necessity of digging and boring a hole. Those methods were revolutionising mineral prospecting. Furthermore co-operation between British and Canadian fisheries' experts have led to advantageous pooling of knowledge.

The Empire Marketing Board worked in close co-operation with the Cabinet Committee of Civil Research, with all departments of the home Government concerned in research, and with corresponding bodies overseas. Very considerable sums of money which had been voted by the Parliament in Westminster were being devoted partly to a campaign of publicity intended to stimulate public demand for Empire products, and partly to schemes for the promotion of scientific research and economic investigation.

A SALES VALUE.

Reiterating that the creation of "atmosphere" was the first step, Mr. Baldwin said that he had little doubt that the leaven had begun its work. The name "British" on goods had acquired a real sales value, and it was only a question of time before the practice of first asking for Empire goods became engrained in the nation, which, whatever its other shortcomings, had never been accused of any lack of tenacity when once it firmly had hold of an idea.

He believed that one-tenth of the world's crops were raised by man to be eaten by insects. That gave an idea of the true value of the labours of scientists against insect pests. The problem of controlling and checking the tremendous wastage was of special urgency to the British Empire; for pests had proved themselves bold and successful immigrants.

He told his audience that a parasite zoo has been set up in Surrey for the purpose of breeding parasites which kept down the natural increases of insects.

Great Britain had forty million consumers and was recovering her position. She sold about half her manufactured products to the Dominions, which were incomparably her best market. The Dominions' purchases of Great Britain's manufactures helped Great Britain to buy the Dominions' primary products.

NOT DECADENT.

"I have not," said Mr. Baldwin, "been in Canada long enough to know what you think about Great Britain, but if anybody tells you, or you read anywhere, that Great Britain is decadent in any way, that is the biggest mistake in the world.

"We have our difficulties, and I do not minimise them, but there has never been a time when she shouldered her burdens more manfully or has been more determined to progress than to-day.

"There is no doubt that the next half century ahead of all of us will be momentous in the history of the world. Problems are going to be extraordinarily difficult, and they will be made difficult by the rapid advance of science that is bringing together the peoples closer than ever in the past, and causing the old civilisations to impinge dircetly on those that have not their civilisation and culture in a way that has not happened before.

"That brings me to this, and it is a subject on which I feel most strongly, speaking as an Englishman with experience of England alone. There has always been in England a tradition of public service, and though I have been in public life many years, and have always been interested in it, I have never known such interest in public life taken by our people as since the war. There is recognition that the problems of this age will demand the best brains, the highest courage and the coolest courage."

He expressed the opinion that the best stamp of young men were entering British public life; many of them were sacrificing the prospects of making large incomes and their leisure.

"These," he continued, "are being largely recruited from the men who went straight from school to the harder school of war, where they, boys themselves, got the idea of the brotherhood and fellowship of man.

A HARD SCHOOL.

"Public life in England is a hard school. There is no money in it, and sometimes there is a certain amount of honour. There are a great many kicks, and you always end in disaster. You are always liable to be fired out without notice and without a pension, but you do have the satisfaction of doing a

THE PRINCES' VISIT.

A GREAT WELCOME IN MONTREAL.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

MONTREAL, Monday.

After yesterday's rest the Prince of Wales, Prince George, and Mr. Baldwin embarked on the full programme of their single day's stay at Montreal this morning. The celebrations, for which the city is gaily beflagged, opened with a civic reception, to which the Princes and Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin were escorted by Canadian dragoons, with a guard of honour composed of Canadian Grenadiers, of which the Prince of Wales is Colonel-in-Chief.

The distinguished visitors were escorted to the dais in the Salle d'Honneur of the City Hall, where Mr. Mederic Martin, the Mayor of Montreal, presented to them addresses of welcome in French and English.

THE PRINCE'S REPLY.

The Prince of Wales, replying to the address of welcome, said:—"The greetings and good wishes of the citizens of Montreal have been conveyed to my brother and myself on our way through your streets, and in the words we have just heard, in a manner we shall long remember.

"It is a pleasure to be again in Montreal, where I have been so warmly welcomed on a previous occasion, and I hope that it will not be long before I again visit this hospitable city."

THE MIGHTY ST. LAWRENCE.

Mr. Baldwin, replying to the address of welcome, told of his emotion on entering the mighty St. Lawrence waterway which in the past had seen "a mighty procession from Europe of sailors, soldiers, priests and traders, the best of the valiant sons of Brittany and Devon.

"You have a tradition of courage and enterprise, loyalty and piety to live up to and to encourage you and your children and your children's children," he declared. "There is no fairer hope from England than that, true to these traditions. Montreal may become the mightiest city on this mighty river, a great centre of one of the greatest nations in the world."

Mr. Baldwin's brief reply evidently created a great impression on his hearers.

PREMIER LUNCHES IN HIS SHIRT SLEEVES.

Mr. Baldwin was the guest of the Canadian Club at luncheon, and he set a democratic and common-sense example, which was enthusiastically followed by the audience of distinguished guests, when he took off his coat and hung it over the back of the chair. In this way he was able to lunch and address his audience in comfort.

It was a sultry day, and the perspiring guests cheered the British Prime Minister's thoughtful initiative.

This afternoon the Princes went to Laval Sur Le Lac to play golf. Mr. Baldwin, after addressing the Canadian Club, made a tour of the city. In the late afternoon the Princes and Mr. Baldwin attended a garden party given by Senator W. L. Macdougald.

The day closed with a dinner to the gentlemen of the party, given by Mr. E. W. Beatty, the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A REAL HOLIDAY.

The Prince of Wales and Prince George are planning to have a real Canadian holiday after bidding farewell to Mr. Baldwin and his party at Banff. They intend to spend two or three weeks at the Prince of Wales's Alberta ranch in the foothills of the Rockies, where they will be completely cut off from formalities. Excellent fishing streams abound in the neighbourhood.

After that they will probably go to the Pacific coast and will visit Vancouver and Victoria.

TUNNEY-DEMPSEY FIGHT.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Monday.

After the Board of Control had voted allowing the Tunney-Dempsey fight to be staged on the Soldiers' Field here on September 15, Mr. Tex Rickard announced that the big fight would be held there either on the 15th, or, in the event of rain, on the next night.

Mr. Rickard will pay 100,000 dollars for the use of the field, and will also pay for the erection of the stands, etc.

man's job, and if anybody doubts that let him try my job for a week."

In Canada he believed that the brightest bit of statesmanship in the years to come would be found in the reconciliation of agriculture and industry, and in the bringing together of East, West and Central Canada. He believed that Central Canada typified the finest civilisations in Europe, those of France and England, which had warred against each other for centuries, but had always been in the van of progress.

"That kind of civilisation," Mr. Baldwin added, "never gets too much diluted. Do not be in too much of a hurry to get wealth, but remember that the quality of a nation is more important than its quantity. Time is on your side, and you have a thousand years in which to develop this Continent. You may some day be the greatest nation in the world, but let you foundations go deeply, and when, in the long future, your nation has attained the position I pray God she may attain, all the peoples of the world will regard you with respect and affection, and maybe she will still typify in the highest degree that magnificent civilisation in which her roots were first planted centuries ago in Europe."

Mr. Baldwin's concluding words were greeted with tremendous applause.

TUNNELLING INTO A BANK.

ROBBERS' PLOT FOILED BY POLICE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WARSAW, Monday.

During the past week the local police frustrated a daring plot by a gang of criminals to gain entrance to the State Engraving Institute, where all bills of the Bank of Poland are printed.

The criminals were arrested when they were about to finish digging an underground passage leading to the institute. The passage, 25 metres long, was equipped with the most modern technical devices. It was floored, wired for electric lights, and an air pump had been installed for ventilation. It led to a spot under the vaults, where the bank notes are printed daily.

At the time of the arrests the vaults contained a sum of six million zlotys in bills. The gang numbered six. One man was mortally wounded when he tried to resist the police.

PUBLICANS' BALLOT CONCLUDED.

PIQUANT RESULT POSSIBLE

The plebiscite of the members of the Dublin licensed trade's organisation to decide officially on what shall be the retail price of Guinness's stout in the metropolitan area was concluded yesterday.

No official information on the subject was available, but it is stated that the ballot was fairly exhaustive. Voting papers were sent to those who have been selling below the shilling per pint and eightpence per bottle prices as well as to the traders who so far have kept up the full charges.

An Irish Times representative was informed that in this connection a piquant situation may arise. It is thought that some of those whose retail prices have been less than those fixed by the Association may vote for the maintenance in the latter prices, although they themselves do not intend to observe them.

THE PROVOST OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

The following bulletins were issued from the Provost's House, Trinity College, Dublin, yesterday:—

9 A.M.—The Provost had only a fair night. His general condition remains unchanged.

11 P.M.—There is some general improvement, and the Provost has had a restful day.

TWO BY-ELECTIONS.

CO. DUBLIN AND SOUTH CITY DIVISION.

By Our Political Correspondent.

The writs for the by-elections in County Dublin and Dublin South City, rendered necessary by the murder of Mr. Kevin O'Higgins and the death of Madame Markiewicz, will be moved in the Dail to-day.

None of the parties has so far declared its intention in regard to contesting the vacancies, but the names of several ex-members of the Government Party in the Dail have been mentioned as possible candidates.

It is fairly certain that the Labour Party will fight both seats, but no candidate, I gather, has been so far chosen.

SHOTS FIRED AT CIVIC GUARD.

COUNTY CORK OUTRAGE.

Our Cork Correspondent states that last evening at Grenagh, about twelve miles from Cork City, shots were fired at a Civic Guard named O'Donnell, who was on duty there. The Guard was uninjured. His assailant escaped through a wood.

VENETIAN SCENES ON THE LIFFEY.

DUBLIN ILLUMINATIONS FOR CIVIC WEEK.

A picturesque edifice, erected on O'Connell Bridge, illuminated at night by thousands of coloured lights; music in the parks; boats lit up by fancy lanterns on the river; a historical pageant, and a military tattoo are to be some of the attractions in Dublin during Civic Week (September 17th-25th). Concerts, dances, and cabaret shows are also being arranged, ending on Friday evening with a historical costume ball in the Mansion House.

MRS. ELLIOTT LYNN'S VICTORY.

GROSVENOR CHALLENGE CUP.

Mrs. Elliott Lynn won the women pilots' race on a D.H. "Moth" yesterday, beating Lady Bailey by a few yards, and she easily won the Grosvenor Challenge Cup, the principal race of the day, with the Master of Semphill second.

FOXHUNT IN LONDON STREETS.

RAPID RUN TO EARTH AND KILL.

No red-coated huntsmen or eager hounds enjoyed the thrills of the chase at an impromptu meet at Muswell Hill, North London, yesterday. Only those people who happened to be on the spot when Reynard was seen going away were able to start in full cry and enjoy the excitement. It was only a brief run, however, for the fox went to earth in a chicken-run in a contractor's yard, and there was a kill.

Some people who lived in a Muswell Hill street rubbed their eyes when they saw a young fox, and while they did so he bolted. The crowd started in pursuit with any odds against them. After a chase up and down side streets the fox turned into the yard of Mr. Copsey, a contractor, of Alexandra road, where he had previously visited the chicken-run to some purpose.

Hearing a commotion in the yard, Mr. Copsey went out, and learning that a fox had hidden in the run he got a shotgun and killed it.

Mr. Copsey stated on Sunday that he found two fowls lying dead outside the run, but the possibility that a fox had been responsible never entered his mind

HORSE SHOW WEEK.

MORE "RECORDS" EXPECTED.

MANY VISITORS.

U.S. MINISTER TO SEE SHOW TO-DAY.

Given good weather conditions, the success of the Royal Dublin Society's annual Horse Show, which opens at Ballsbridge to-day, is assured.

The entries are larger than those of last year in all sections except that for "made" hunters five years old and upwards. This was to be expected in view of the demand which has been experienced for well-trained hunters during the past season.

Young horses suitable for hunters show a gratifying increase, and there is also a much larger entry of riding cobs and ponies. This may be taken as an indication that the depleted ranks of the "made" hunters will be satisfactorily filled.

At 6.30 a.m. yesterday the last of the special horse trains reached the Show grounds siding, and the animals were at once conveyed to their stalls. Every horse on the premises has been subjected to veterinary inspection, and a clean bill of health has been declared for all.

The Belgian military horses, intended for the International Jumping Competition, reached their destination yesterday, and were stabled in their new quarters in the Bloodstock Paddock. The foreign officers have all expressed their delight with the reception accorded to them, and with the hospitality of Lord and Lady Ardee, Lord and Lady Powerscourt, and others. They were impressed by the natural beauties of Powerscourt Demesne, of which they said they would carry back happy recollections.

MORE VISITORS THAN AT ANY POST-WAR SHOW.

Mr. Edward Bohane, Director of the Royal Dublin Society, when seen by an Irish Times representative yesterday, stated that, from the continuous inquiries received during the day, he was satisfied that we had had a greater percentage of cross-Channel and overseas visitors in Dublin than had been here in any year since the war. Many of these had intimated their intention of remaining in Ireland for a week or two following the Show, and with that object have brought over their motor cars.

One of the judges of harness, when visiting the showyard yesterday, told Mr. Bohane that societies all over the world could take a lesson from the Dublin Society at Ballsbridge. Some Americans, after speaking of the size of certain "fairs" or "agricultural expositions" in their own country, declared that they had not thought it possible for Ireland to produce such a wonderful setting. A native of Argentina said that they thought that in Buenos Ayres they had the last word in showyards, but he took off his hat to Ballsbridge. What impressed them most was the splendid view of the jumping enclosure from the new Anglesea Stand, together with the wonderful vista beyond.

On the course in the jumping enclosure special covers have been used to protect the banks, which are now in perfect order. Exhibitors generally are delighted with the greatly improved facilities in the Veterinary Paddock. The reorganisation during the winter of this paddock, which had been in an unsatisfactory condition for some years, has enabled the Royal Dublin Society to provide for the first time a really good grass paddock. This will be largely used in connection with sales, of which, by the way, a number took place yesterday. In this direction Americans have been busy. There are also buyers present from Great Britain, Germany, Switzerland and France, so that, with some home competition, business during the week should be brisk.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS.

With the renovation which it has undergone and the additional accommodation provided, the Bloodstock Sales Paddock was never seen to more advantage than at present. The auction mart is now so arranged that the auctioneer's voice can be heard without any distraction, and there is every arrangement for the comfort of visitors. There are now to be found here 250 loose boxes, exclusive of the special military stables.

A thousand motor cars can be safely stored in the Society's garage, accommodation in this respect having been largely extended.

At 2 p.m. to-day the Royal Dublin Society will officially welcome Mr. Sterling, the United States Minister, who has expressed his intention of visiting the Show.

What must be done to establish further "records" in the history of the Ballsbridge Horse Show may be gleaned from the fact that last year three "records" were established at the bloodstock sales—the amount received was 85,912 guineas, or 11,455 guineas more than the previous year's total; the average price was the best in the history of these sales, and a sum of 2,000 guineas was obtained for a yearling.

The attendance for the four days last year was 93,591, made up as follows, as compared with that of preceding years:—

Day	1926	1925	1924	1923	1922
First ...	10,708	7,959	7,241	6,229	5,879
Second ...	21,355	19,506	16,746	16,907	8,663
Third ...	27,395	26,922	22,755	19,239	15,540
Fourth ...	34,133	12,742	12,224	9,557	7,270
Total ...	93,591	67,129	58,966	51,932	37,352

The entries compare as follow:—

	1927.	1926.	1925.	1924.	1923.
Stallions, yearlings and brood mares:—	127	123	158	150	135
"Made" hunters, five years old and upwards:—	393	444	435	460	448
Young horses suitable for hunters:—	201	176	126	101	101
Riding cobs and ponies:—	146	102	82	88	75
Harness horses:—	88	85	115	95	100
Totals:—	955	930	916	892	862

Amongst the 750 passengers who arrived at Kingstown last evening by the L.M.S. mail boat were many Americans, who are visiting Dublin for the Horse Show. Six hundred and seventy passengers came by the morning boat and 640 travelled by the outward boat.

[List of visitors and the programme of the Show will be found on Page 10.]

TEN MINERS ENTOMBED.

TWO DEAD.

RESCUE SCENES AFTER EXPLOSION.

SHORTLY after 5 o'clock last evening ten men were entombed in a new shaft at Cardowan Colliery Steps, near Glasgow, belonging to James Dunlop and Co., Clyde Ironworks.

The men were sinking a new shaft when an explosion occurred, and a large quantity of material was thrown down the shaft.

One man who was attending to a pump on the surface was thrown some distance by the concussion, and is now in the Royal Infirmary. He is not seriously injured.

After rescue parties had been at work for seven hours they located the ten entombed men, but two were dead. The other eight were seriously injured.

The two dead men were:—

John Kilpatrick (Shettleston) and Morris McBride (Glasgow).

The injured are:—

Stephen and William Ferguson (brothers),
Charles Slavin,
George Jackson,
Michael Conroy,
Bernard Milligan,
Bernard McAleer, and
Peter Wilson.

All the injured were removed to the Royal Infirmary, Glasgow, suffering from severe burns and injuries.

One of the rescuers said that the explosion was like a shot from a cannon and could be heard for miles around.

There was nine feet of water in the pit, and the two dead men were hauled out from the bottom.

About two thousand people congregated round the pit-head.

PITHEAD SCENES.

DANGEROUS RESCUE WORK.

Huge crowds visited the pithead, and among the officials in attendance were the Chairman and Secretary of the colliery company; Mr. Johnstone, the Manager; Mr. Stoker, Inspector of Mines; Mr. Robinson, Assistant Inspector, and Mr. Keith, Chief Constable of Lanarkshire.

The Secretary of the company stated that the shaft had been sunk to a depth of 240 fathoms. A seam of coal had been passed through, but it was deemed advisable to sink still further.

Three shafts were in operation throughout the twenty-four hours. There was a squad of ten at the bottom, while others were employed at pumps working from a scaffold about two-thirds down.

SEVERE EXPLOSION.

All the men used safety lamps, and the cause of the explosion is as yet unknown. So fierce was the explosion at the bottom of the shaft that the two men on the scaffolding were blown off their feet, but they had a lucky escape, only one being slightly injured. They were speedily brought to the surface and attended to.

The lower portion of the shaft was seriously damaged, and it was deemed expedient to try an entrance from No. 1 shaft.

VOICES HEARD.

Three men at once descended, and were able to get within a comparatively short distance of the entombed men, and could hear voices, but the rescue party were unable to make out what was shouted on the other side of the débris.

A large squad of voluntary workers rushed to the scene, and, under the direction of experts, they set about hand-winding, and lowered a second rescue party in an improvised "basket." The ordinary winding was still in order, but it was considered too risky, as loose débris might be dislodged and thrown on top of the entombed men.

RESCUE WORK.

Later it was learned that a number of the workers at the bottom had got into the kettle. It was then feared that the accumulation of water might reach them, and it was decided to risk raising the kettle some four feet.

This was done cautiously by the voluntary winders at the top. Soon after the rescue party heard voices shouting "Bell away," the ordinary request of a miner to keep on winding.

Under the circumstances this was still considered dangerous, and the rescue party at ten o'clock were investigating the lower portion of the shaft to ascertain whether it would be safe to risk raising the entombed men still higher.

The ten men entombed were engaged by the contractors who are carrying out the work of sinking the shaft.

TWO AIRMEN KILLED.

MACHINE'S SPINNING DIVE TO EARTH.

Pilot Officer A. G. Boon, who, with Leading Aircraftsman Vincent, of the 13th Army Co-operation Squadron, was killed in a crash at Farnborough, Hampshire, yesterday, was a Shropshire man.

They were flying a Bristol fighter machine, when it was seen to spin from a height of nearly 500 feet. The machine was wrecked. The pilot was killed outright, and Vincent died soon after removal from the wreckage.

The machine was flying with five others when the accident occurred.

[Note.—This makes 39 deaths in Royal Air Force accidents this year.]

AEROPLANE STRIKES A HUT.

Some members of the Auxiliary Air Force undergoing training at Leuchars, Fifeshire, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday. An aeroplane, when trying to land in the aerodrome, struck a telephone post, wrecking the wires, and then, turning round, smashed into the headquarters.

Flight Lieutenant Money (Pay Officer) and Flight Lieutenant Bromley (Medical Officer) were in the hut, the wall of which fell upon them and rendered them unconscious. Neither, however, received serious injuries.

Flight Lieutenant Wimble, who was piloting the machine, was badly cut about the head, and was removed to Edinburgh.

Air Marshal Sir Hugh Trenchard, Chief of the Air Staff, who is on a visit of inspection at Leuchars, was on the scene at the time of the mishap. The telephone service between Dundee and St. Andrews was completely disorganised during the day, about thirty wires having being torn down

LATE NEWS.

GENEVA CRISIS.

BIG SCHEME NEVER STUDIED.

From "The Times" Correspondent.

GENEVA, Monday.

The plenary session of the Naval Limitation Conference has been fixed for Thursday. In view of the events of the last twenty-four hours it would be affectation to pretend that there is much prospect of the Conference surviving that meeting.

It is now chiefly a question of tactics as to how the end is to be compassed, and in view of the fact that this is to serve the purposes of domestic politics in the United States the concluding stage is invested with fascinating, if distasteful, interest.

JAPANESE OFFER.

A meeting of the British Empire delegation was held this morning, and subsequently Admiral Saito paid a visit to Mr. Bridgeman. It is reported that he proposed intervention by the Japanese delegation for the purpose of composing the differences which have arisen. But it appears that the Japanese delegation, after exploiting the situation at a special meeting, had no definite proposal to offer that had a chance of acceptance. Indeed, it seems very unlikely that it would have been welcomed.

There is good ground for believing that the last British scheme was never seriously studied by the United States delegation, and that the decision to drive the Conference to the edge of the abyss was taken before it could even have been properly looked at.

The reply of the United States delegation is ready, and it has been submitted to Washington for confirmation, and it is understood that the Washington comments were in the direction of making it stiffer in tone.

THE POLITICAL CLAUSE.

If confirmation were wanted of the attitude of the United States authorities towards agreement in any form it is forthcoming in the draft political clause, which I included in my despatch last night. Drawn up about a fortnight ago at the wish of the United States delegation, it had been laid aside after being wholeheartedly condemned by both the British and Japanese legal representatives.

Yesterday it was produced by the United States delegation anew and issued as an official communiqué.

Behind its legal phraseology it cynically opens the door to the worst abuses of naval competition, besides producing an atmosphere of suspicion and secret building for the period of four years to the revision of the Washington Treaty. As a document destined to form part of a naval limitation proposal it must be unique. One can only conclude that the purpose for which it is brought forward at the present juncture is to obscure the issues upon which the Conference decides to break up.

Therefore, it is well to bear in mind that the question upon which the Conference actually does come to grief, which it must do short of an eleventh-hour miracle, is the failure of the United States delegation, doubtless acting under direction, to fulfil President Coolidge's undertaking to consider the special needs of the other two nations, and its insistence upon their reducing their navies, not to a position of parity and proportion, but to the level of an American predominance at the cheapest figure.

UNITED STATES PRESS CAMPAIGN.

Echoes of the Press campaign in America, said to have been the most intensive ever known, have floated to the Conference here, and they leave little doubt in the minds of the other delegations as to the ultimate outcome. The United States, with a vast financial surplus and a large section of the public swung to the side of the "Big Navy" movement, will grant the money and build the ships.

The effect on the other nations, with the spectacle before them of the three greatest naval Powers separating on such terms, will, it is thought, prove fatal to the cause of world disarmament—the very cause according to President Coolidge's message that the Conference was called to serve.

FRENCH ACTION AT TIENTSIN.

CARPET TAX BUREAU CLEARED.

From "The Times" Correspondent.

TIENTSIN, Monday.

In pursuance of instructions from the French Minister at Peking, French municipal police this morning visited the Customs branch of the Bank of Communications, where the Tuchuns' Carpet Tax Bureau had been established, and ordered out all the Carpet Tax officials, including the British Adviser, Mr. Galvin. They removed the tax notices, obliterating all traces of the illegal tax, sent Mr. Galvin to the British Concession, escorted the Chinese tax collectors to Chinese territory, and ordered them not to return to the French Concession. The French Minister had ordered troops to support the police if necessary, but the officials left without resistance.

The French action is based on a municipal regulation forbidding the collection of taxes in the French Concession, except on the Municipal Council's authority or by Treaty right—for example, the Maritime Customs. The French action is enthusiastically applauded both by the foreign and Chinese commercial communities, who are suffering from the Tupan's arbitrary extortions. It is not expected that the Tupan will persist in attempting to enforce the tax, but, doubtless, there will be the usual protest that Chinese sovereignty has been infringed.

The British community see in this action of the French a strong argument against any extension of Chinese authority in the British Concession, and suggest that the illegal levies at Shanghai and elsewhere may be abolished similarly.

OTTOMAN DEBT.

AN AGREEMENT REACHED.

From "The Times" Correspondent.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sunday.

I learn officially that an agreement has been reached on the question of the Ottoman debt, and that the service of the coupons will now be resumed. The exact conditions of the agreement are not known at present, but it is believed that Turkey will pay approximately 20,000,000 Turkish pounds (£2,000,000) annually for the first few years. This figure, however, will gradually increase.

TO PEDAL ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

TWO MEN IN A BOAT LIKE A BABY SUBMARINE.

Two Lancashire men, Edward Tierney, aged 30, of Salford, Manchester, and Dick Hayman, aged 23, of Swinton, hope to set sail from Dover next Monday in an attempt to cross the Atlantic in "Carrie," the smallest boat in which the feat has been attempted.

The "Carrie" is twelve feet long, five feet deep, and three feet across the beam. She weighs a ton and draws only two feet of water. In appearance she is not unlike a baby submarine. Entry can be made only through a small square hole in the top, and in a high sea this hole can be closed with a tiny conning tower. Only one man will be able to look out, or even sit up, at a time. The other will have to lie down as well as he can.

WINDMILL AND PEDALS TO DRIVE BOAT.

The "Carrie" can be propelled in three different ways. Reliance will be placed mainly on the wind, which will be caught in a small windmill, so constructed that it can be set to catch the breeze from any quarter and drive the screw. If there is no wind one of the navigators will drive the screw by means of foot pedals. By a clever contrivance, these pedals can be lifted and worked by hand when the feet are tired.

Neither of the men has had any real experience of navigation, but Tierney, who has been four times round the world as a ship's steward, will set the course, aided by a chronometer and a compass.

Until Thursday last the two men were strangers to each other. On that day Hayman answered an advertisement asking for a volunteer, and decided, a few hours later, to go.

HOPE TO MAKE CROSSING IN FORTY DAYS.

Hayman, in an interview yesterday, said that they hoped to make the crossing in forty days, the period for which they would provide themselves with food and water. They intended to exhibit the ship when they reached New York.

Hayman and Tierney are single men, and hope to get married on their return.

The London Evening News says:—Two young adventurers from Salford, Edward Tierney and Dick Hayman, have invested all their savings, £60, in the boat. She will be taken on Thursday to Dover by motor lorry for the start of the trip.

HUMAN SACRIFICE IN SUMATRA.

SEQUEL TO DISASTER ON LAKE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE HAGUE, Monday.

An extraordinary occurrence is reported in despatches received here from Batavia to-day. Fifty-six natives, chiefly women, were drowned as the result of a terrible accident on the Lake of Toba, situated in the centre of Sumatra, and there has been a gruesome sequel.

A party of about one hundred people, all Sumatra natives, started out to attend a vocal concert at the Christian Church on the island in the centre of Toba Lake. They all crowded into a large Indian boat of native workmanship, which, when well out from the shore, began to sink, owing, it is believed, to a serious leak in the bottom of the vessel.

The boat gradually disappeared, and the natives were all thrown into the water. Indescribable scenes followed, the native women shrieking and fighting in the water in an endeavour to save their lives. Only forty of the original company were rescued.

SEQUEL—A REVERSION TO PAGANISM.

The disaster is declared to have made such a deep impression on the natives of Sumatra that a large section of the population has renounced Christianity, laying the responsibility for the disaster upon the Christian religion.

In order to satisfy the wrath of the god of the lake, a boy sixteen years of age has been sacrificed by beheading.

The Dutch Indian police have arrested several natives concerned in the human sacrifice.

INDIAN FLOODS.

LATEST ESTIMATE OF DAMAGE.

From "The Times" Correspondent.

BOMBAY, Monday.

Although it is still impossible accurately to estimate the amount of damage to life and property done by the floods in Gujarat and Kathiawar, some details are now available, which show how urgent is the need for relief, which is rapidly being organised.

The Ahmedabad police estimated on Saturday morning that 50,013 houses had collapsed, and that the damage done was over 22 lakhs of rupees (about £165,000). According to an official statement made by the Bombay Legislative Council, which is now sitting at Poona, the Ahmedabad municipality is arranging to raise a loan of ten lakhs (£75,000) for re-building and a relief fund of three laghs (£22,500).

The official statement continues: The collector at Panch Mahal reports much damage to property and crops, and the collector at Kaira, whence very little information is available, also reports great damage, the rainfall in three days being 40 inches. The storm centre appears to have shifted farther north, and fresh breaches of the railways are reported in Kathiawar, Rajputana, and Sind.

DEATH OF NEGRO LEADER.

NEW YORK, Monday.

The death is announced of Dr. J. E. Kwegyir Aggrey, Vice-Principal of the Prince of Wales's College, Achimota, Gold Coast, who is regarded here as one of the leaders of the negro race.—(Reuter.)

MANY HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED IN IRELAND.

BIG DEATH ROLL IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The week-end and the bank holiday were marked by a number of serious motor accidents in Ireland. Four persons were killed and many were injured.

In Great Britain many persons were injured, some seriously, in accidents during the week-end and yesterday in char-à-banc, motor car and motor cycle accidents. The motor cycle took the largest toll. Deaths resulted as follows:—Flying, 2; motor cycling, 2; mountain climbing, 1; drowning, 1; fall over cliff, 1.

THREE CYCLISTS COLLIDE.

TWO KILLED IN SMASH NEAR BALLYMENA.

A serious motor cycling accident is reported from Ballymena. Late on Sunday night three machines crashed into one another at Currell's Bridge, on the Broughshane road, about a mile from the town. Four men were involved in the accident, and two of them were killed.

The victims were—George Lyttle, motor cycle agent, Ballymena, and Alexander Walshe, of Carnlough. The former, who served in the Ulster Division in the Great War, and was badly wounded, leaves a widow and two children.

From the evidence given at an inquest into the deaths of the two men it appeared that Lyttle and a young man named George Allen, also of Ballymena, went out on a cycle run together, on separate machines, and at Cushendall met another Ballymena man, Arthur McAteer, who conducts a hairdressing establishment at Keane Barracks, Curragh Camp. The three were returning at night, when, at Currell's Bridge, Lyttle, who was leading the way, came into collision with a combination motor cycle, driven by Mr Archibald McKinley, principal of Harphall Public Elementary School, Carnlough, who had Walshe in his side car. McAteer, who who was immediately behind, ran into the machines, but Allen was able to pull up in time.

WITHOUT LIGHTS.

Further evidence showed that the combination cycle was the only machine which showed a light.

Mr. McKinley, who was duly cautioned, stated that it was twilight at the time of the collision. He saw a cyclist approach at a terrific speed on the wrong side of the road; another cyclist appeared on the crown of the bridge, and then came the crash. His machine was turned right round, and he was thrown over the handlebars on to the ground. Just after the sidecar turned on the road the second motor cyclist crashed into the back of it. He accompanied the third cyclist—Allen—on his machine for a doctor.

McAteer said that he had a lamp on his bicycle, but it was barely lighting-up time, and he had not bothered lighting it. Neither Lyttle nor Allen had a light. There was a "rise" on the bridge, and the witness "did not see anything until he was on top of them." He estimated his speed at about 25 miles an hour.

William H. Kirkwood, a tractor engine driver, living at Broughshane, stated that he noticed three motor cyclists passing towards Ballymena, travelling at about 25 miles an hour. He would not consider that quick.

Dr. T. J. Gibson, who attended the injured men, stated that Lyttle died about half an hour after admission to the Waveney Hospital, the cause of death being shock and hemorrhage, following a fracture of the skull. Walsh died about four o'clock yesterday morning from shock and hemorrhage, resulting from a fracture of the skull and a fracture of the left thigh.

The jury returned a verdict in each case in accordance with the medical evidence; and subsequently, the Deputy Coroner (Mr. John Owens), the Foreman of the jury, and Sergeant Benson joined in expressions of sympathy with the bereaved relatives.

RAN INTO LORRY.

DUTCHMAN CYCLIST KILLED NEAR BELFAST.

A motor accident which occurred on the Saintfield road, about three miles beyond the Waterworks at Carryduff, Co. Down, yesterday afternoon, resulted in one man being killed and another seriously injured.

The man killed was a Dutchman named Jan Hoyte Verder, whose address was given as Head Line Buildings, Belfast. The injured man is Thomas Hughes, whose address has not yet been ascertained.

It appears that Verder was driving a motor cycle with Hughes riding pillion, when the machine crashed into a motor lorry. Verder was instantaneously killed, and Hughes sustained serious head injuries. The motor cycle was completely wrecked.

Hughes has been detained for treatment in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast.

TOURING CARS COLLIDE.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED OUTSIDE DERRY.

Five persons were injured when two touring motor cars collided head-on at the "Big Bridge," on the Belfast-Dublin main road, near Newry, last Saturday afternoon. The cars were badly damaged, one being reduced almost to scrap.

A saloon car, driven by Miss Elsie Wilson, of Dublin, who was accompanied by her father and sister May, was going towards Dublin, and had just emerged from under the railway bridge, when the other car, driven by Robert Hudson, Rushbrook, Queenstown, from the Dundalk direction, ran into it, and the force of the impact was so great that the engine of the latter car was broken into fragments.

Mrs. Hudson had a narrow escape from death. Seeing that the collision was unavoidable, she opened the door, and had stepped on to the running board when the crash came. She was flung underneath the heavy car, and the wheels just missed her by a fraction of an inch. She escaped with severe shock and some bruises.

Miss May Wilson got a nasty cut on the leg, and was hurried to Dr. Grant's surgery for treatment. Mr. Wilson and Miss Elsie Wilson received minor injuries, and Mr. Robert Hudson escaped with slight cuts from the flying splinters of the wind-screen.

The saloon car was able to go on to Newry, but a break-down gang had to clear the other car off the road.

'BUS OVERTURNS.

BELFAST PASSENGER AND DRIVER HURT.

A motor 'bus from Donaghadee, driven by Samuel Beattie, 6 Belfast road, Bangor, overturned at the junction of Sheridan Drive and Groomsport road, Bangor, last evening.

One of the passengers, Miss Jean Doggart, 50 Rugby road, Belfast, sustained a cut on the arm, and the conductor of the 'bus, James Stewart, Groomsport, had his finger slightly injured. They were treated in hospital, but were not detained.

The 'bus overturned when the driver was obliged to swerve quickly in order to avoid a van which came round a sharp bend in the road. The 'bus belonged to Mrs. Stewart, Donaghadee.

COUNTY DOWN BOY KILLED.

George Beattie, aged nine years, was killed by a motor car at Ballyfrenis, near Carrowdore, Co. Down, on Sunday evening. He had been playing with a companion, it appears, and suddenly darted in front of an on-coming car. The motorist rushed him in to Donaghadee to Dr. Fitzgerald's surgery, but the boy died on the way.

At the inquest the jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death," attaching no blame to the driver of the motor car.

CYCLIST INJURED IN TYRONE.

While cycling at Lisnarrow, Co. Tyrone, on Sunday evening a young man named J. Sweeney, of Tyrhernaghan, collided with a motor car, receiving severe injuries to the face and hands. After receiving medical treatment he was sent to the Strabane District Hospital. Yesterday it was learned that he was making good progress.

FLUNG THROUGH WINDSCREEN.

Shot through the windscreen of a motor car into the chauffeur's arms as the result of a head-on collision while riding a pedal bicycle at Ballymacoda, Co. Cork, on Sunday evening, a man named Walsh sustained injuries to face, head and hands. The motorist—Mr. Cronin, of Cork—with the assistance of the local Guards, brought him to Youghal for medical attention.

MOTOR COLLISION NEAR LURGAN.

Coming into collision with a small Ford lorry on the Portadown road, near Lurgan, a motor cyclist, David Abraham (21), of Kilnergaw, Lurgan, a foundry worker in Portadown, sustained a broken left leg and serious injury to his left arm. The lorry overturned on the footpath, but the driver escaped without injury. Abraham is in the Lurgan Infirmary at present.

COLLISION AT WHITEABBEY.

Colliding with a motor cycle while riding a bicycle at Whiteabbey on Sunday evening, James Bunn, Bristol street, Belfast, had to be treated in the Mater Hospital for injuries to the forehead, knees and hands.

BELFAST MAN'S DEATH.

George Harris (47), of Lisburn avenue, Belfast, who sustained serious injuries to his back as the result of a motor cycle accident on the Belfast-Ballynahinch road last Wednesday night, died in the Royal Victoria Hospital on Sunday afternoon. Harris was seated in the sidecar of a motor cycle, driven by James Fish (22), Adelaide avenue, Belfast, when the machine skidded and ran through a hedge into a field.

RAILWAYMEN'S ESCAPE.

Alexander Mageean, while working on the County Down Railway at Belfast yesterday, was knocked down by a train that was backing out. He had the presence of mind to lie still, and seven carriages passed over him before the train was pulled up. He received a scalp wound in the fall, but was otherwise unhurt.

MANY ACCIDENTS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

MOTOR TRAFFIC TAKES A HEAVY TOLL.

The Bank holiday season in Great Britain has been darkened by very many accidents of the road and the sea. Many occurred on Saturday and Sunday, and have already been reported. Yesterday added a considerable number.

A naval petty officer was killed in motor cycling from Portsmouth to his home at Botley, Hants.

A girl died in Lowestoft Hospital from injuries received in a head-on motor cycle collision. She was riding pillion.

Mrs. Harriet Patman, aged 42, of Spearman street, Woolwich, was drowned in the River Arun, near Arundel, Sussex. She was one of a char-à-banc party, and while the coach stopped she took off her boots and stockings. She then stepped with her bare feet on some burned paper and went down to the river to wash them. She slipped, fell into the river, and was carried away by the swift tide. Rescue efforts were unavailing, and her body has not been recovered.

MOUNTAIN-CLIMBING TRAGEDY.

Mr. C. D. Frankland, of Leeds, a member of the Fell and Rock Scaling Club, was killed on the Great Gable, Scawfell, on Sunday afternoon.

A seven years old boy fell over a cliff at Lulworth on Saturday and died in Dorset County Hospital.

A Brighton man, aged 61, collapsed in a street in Dover yesterday and died in hospital.

Many persons were injured, some seriously, in char-à-banc, motor car and motor cycle accidents. The motor cycle took the largest toll.

BOATMAN WADES WAIST-DEEP TO RESCUE.

A party of twelve visitors, including half a dozen children, were cut off by the tide while out on the rocks at Flamborough Head, Yorks, yesterday. They had climbed on to a ledge of the cliffs, and were unable to get back to the beach.

Their precarious position was observed, and two boatmen in a cobble went to their assistance. The boat was repeatedly in danger of being swamped among the rocks, and a boatman, J. Cotter, had to wade waist-deep in the water to reach the stranded party and effect their rescue.

SOCIALIST SINGERS.

"SCOTS WHA HAE" AND NEGRO SPIRITUALS.

This week is International Week at the Independent Labour Party's summer school at Scorton, Yorks, and Socialists are in attendance as students from Germany, Holland, Norway and China.

Mr. David Kirkwood, M.P., is chairman of the school, and at a social in honour of the international students opened the proceedings by singing "Scots wha hae" in a style which aroused the foreigners to great enthusiasm. Lady Cynthia Mosley, who is one of the students, made her first public appearance as a singer at a school concert. She sang a group of three negro spirituals. She has a well-trained soprano voice.

BANK HOLIDAY COURTS.

OMAGH SOLICITORS WANT THEM STOPPED.

At Omagh Petty Sessions yesterday Mr. W. E. Orr, solicitor, suggested to the magistrates the desirability of not holding Petty Sessions Courts in future on Bank holidays, stating that it was most inconvenient, not only for the magistrates themselves, but for the members of the legal profession and a large number of others. It happened that a Petty Sessions Court was held on almost every Bank holiday.

Mr. John F. Dickie, solicitor, supported the proposal, and said that it would greatly convenience a great number of people if no Courts would be held on Bank holidays; and Major Gorman, District Inspector, said that the police would be agreeable to any arrangement that might be made.

The Chairman (Mr. Thomas Johnston) said that it had been arranged a year ago not to hold a Court on Bank holiday, but some of the magistrates turned up and were greatly disappointed to find no Court. The magistrates, he said, would quite agreeable to any arrangement that might be made.

HISTORIC IRISH RESIDENCES

Particulars of some historically interesting Irish residences for sale will be found on Page 12.

"TO MY GROCER—A HOUSE."

Because of his kindly consideration of the needs of an old customer, Mr. A. C. Martin, of Lipton, Ltd., Blatchington road, Hove, has been bequeathed an eight-roomed freehold house in Brighton. The customer, Miss L. Solomon, who is believed to have been nearly a hundred when she died last October, had traded with Messrs. Lipton's Hove shop for the whole of the twenty-three years during which Mr. Martin had been in charge. She never knew his right name, however, so she left the house—one of ten comprising her estate—"to my grocer, the manager of Lipton's shop in Blatchington road, Hove."

Interviewed yesterday, Mr. Martin, who has a wife and three children, and has been employed by Lipton's for thirty years, said—"Miss Solomon often told me how she appreciated the little kindnesses and the personal attention I was able to render her in my capacity as manager of the shop. I did very little, however, apart from asking after her health and recommending certain foodstuffs I thought she would like."

The rent from the house will be sufficient to provide Mr. Martin, whose life savings were absorbed by expenses during his three years' war services, with a useful pension.

THE AUGUST BANK HOLIDAY.

WEATHER IN IRELAND MAINLY GOOD.

DISMAL CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND.

The weather forecast for yesterday indicated occasional showers and sunny periods. The sunny periods were stronger early in the day and encouraged faith in the heavens, notwithstanding the bad record of the last two months; but massive clouds, in which were set glorious expanses of blue, gradually grew dark, bringing the first shower before two o'clock. The showers, however, were neither very heavy nor of long duration, and did not spoil enjoyment of the day.

The day was sultry in Dublin, the moderate westerly wind scarcely tempering the heat. Desire for the cooling breeze of the sea was strikingly evident by the continuous stream of people pouring into the railway stations, and there ticket clerks and officials had a strenuous time discharging duties that appeared to be exceptionally heavy, even for an August Bank holiday. The railway services were considerably augmented to meet the rush; so was the tram service, and the demand for accommodation showed that the probable number of travellers had not been over-estimated.

Dublin, consequently, was not the overcrowded city that the thousands of visitors who arrived during the week-end might have suggested. Last August Bank holiday 600 people came over from Holyhead: yesterday that number was increased by 76; while 644 crossed from Kingstown by the morning mail boat, and hundreds availed themselves of the excursion to the Isle of Man.

SPORTS ATTRACTIONS.

The annual regatta at Wicklow attracted big crowds to the "Garden of Ireland." The sands along Merrion and southward were popular haunts, and Howth, Killiney, Portmarnock and other coast resorts all drew eager holiday-makers. Leopardstown Races, always a favourite fixture, were very largely attended, frequent arrivals of special trains bringing full consignments of passengers to the racecourse station.

Those who did not go out of town had a variety of ways of amusing or resting themselves, and a visit to the Phœnix Park showed that this delightful retreat from the noise and bustle of the streets had not lost any of its power of attraction. Here, it may be mentioned, polo is one of the forms of sport that can be thoroughly enjoyed, and during this week the game will have added interest. Two special matches have been arranged by the A.I.P.C. On Thursday eventing the (A) Whatnots will meet Hillbrook at 5.30 o'clock, and on Saturday the winners will meet the Yellow Pearls.

The annual junior cricket match between the Leinster and Ulster clubs on the grounds of the Pembroke Club at Sydney Parade provided an attraction for lovers of the game. A number of other cricket matches took place in local venues, and golf competitions were played on the various links near the city. The athletic event of Ireland v. Achilles at Croke Park was another fixture that had its share of spectators, and at night, in addition to the programmes for the theatres and picture houses, there was greyhound racing at Shelbourne Park.

GREAT EXODUS FROM DERRY.

It is generally agreed that the August Bank holiday traffic from Londonderry was never heavier than it was this year. A "record" number of people left the city during the week-end and yesterday. From Saturday morning all the outgoing trains were packed, and yesterday few people were left in the city, where all the places of business were closed.

WET AND COLD ACROSS THE CHANNEL.

DISMAL BANK HOLIDAY AT SEASIDE RESORTS.

The hopes raised by Sunday's delightful weather were not realised for the scores of thousands of bank holiday trippers in Great Britain yesterday. It rained from early morning in London, and generally over the south and along the coast, and at times it poured from a heavy sky with not the tiniest bright patch.

All sport, all outdoor pleasures, all open-air enjoyment suffered an eclipse. Family party picnics in the country were abandoned, the parks and heaths were desolate, the lakes boatless. The city was thronged with joyless visitors, who tried hard to find amusement and attraction. They flocked to the museums, picture galleries, theatres, music halls, and cinemas, while Londoners themselves remained at home with their domestic enjoyments.

It is true that many hardy spirits, bent on certain forms of sport, were not to be deterred. For instance, 20,000 people attended the first greyhound racing matinee at the White City, and an open-air programme of varied sport attracted many to the Crystal Palace. But the attendances at all the historic attractions outside the city were far below those of other August bank holidays.

COLD AND MISERABLE.

The weather was cold, too. The maximum temperature at Kensington Palace was 62 degrees, with 7 millimetres of rain. At Croydon it was only 60 and at Kew 62 degrees. It was a cool day everywhere at the seaside. Blackpool, Colwyn Bay, and Llandudno registered only 67 degrees; Scarborough, Bridlington, and Cleethorpes, 69; Ilkley 68, Margate 64, Ramsgate 63, Bournemouth and Worthing 61, Southsea and Bognor 60.

The first day of the Royal London Yacht Club Regatta at Cowes was one of continuous rain, and only the keenest yachting men and women enjoyed the races.

BROOKLANDS TRACK FLOODED.

Rain poured relentlessly at Sandown Park races. Brooklands motor races were abandoned, the track being under water.

It rained all day at Brighton, and the gates were not opened for cricket at the Oval.

There was a very poor attendance for a holiday fixture at Sandown Park, whereas the Birmingham meeting, which was favoured by fine weather, was attended by a great holiday crowd. The Ripon meeting, too, was largely patronised by the usual and holiday racegoers, and there the weather was brilliant.

WHERE THE SUN SHONE.

The sun shone at Southport and the Hucknall Torkard (Notts) flying meeting was held in ideal weather.

Twenty thousand people watched the cricket at Leeds, eleven thousand at Cardiff and Brighton, ten thousand at Canterbury, eight thousand at Leicester and Bristol, seven thousand at Worcester, and six thousand at Derby. The Manchester greyhound meeting attracted an attendance of ten thousand.

PROSPECTS FOR TO-DAY.

Too late the weather in London showed signs of improvement, and between 8 and 9 p.m. a glorious sunset cast a rosy hue on the wet roadways of almost deserted streets.

The Air Ministry's meteorological office forecasts mixed weather for to-day. "Wind mainly between west and north-west," it says, "mainly fair, but occasional local showers, possibly accompanied by thunder; visibility moderate to good; moderate temperature."

It is interesting to note the variation of sunshine in different parts of the country. The sun shone yesterday at Lerwick, in the Shetland Isles, for 12 hours; the Scilly Isles had 11 hours of sunshine, Blackpool 10.7, and Llandudno 10.3 hours.

There was not a minute's sunshine the whole day at Ramsgate, Deal, Dover, Folkestone, Eastbourne, Worthing, Littlehampton, Bognor, Southsea, Bournemouth and Brighton. Southend saw the sun for six minutes, Margate, Bexhill and Clacton for 12, Felixstowe for 18, and Hastings for 24 minutes.

Even Jersey had only six minutes sunshine. Some of Cornwall's beauty spots were luckier. Bude had 8.6 hours, Penzance 7.3, Newquay 7.0, and Ilfracombe 6.8 hours, while Weymouth, Torquay, Paignton and Weston-super-Mare, all had under two hours' sunshine.

Plymouth, Skegness and Lowestoft had just over an hour's sunshine, Yarmouth 2 hours, and Falmouth nearly 7 hours. Southport, Rhyl, Wallasey, Aberystwyth and Scarborough, all had more than 7.

Felixstowe had the most rain yesterday—19 millimetres. Ramsgate and Deal had 17, while Margate had a rainfall of 16 millimetres.

Rain fell again at nightfall, and this August Bank Holiday ended as dismally as it began.

ITALY AND HER NEIGHBOURS.

STATEMENT BY SIGNOR MUSSOLINI.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

ROME, Monday.

At a Cabinet meeting to-day Signor Mussolini observed that since the last conference of Ministers nothing that particularly concerned Italy had happened in the international sphere. He added that the settlement of the Yugo-Slav-Albanian dispute by the intervention of four Great Western Powers, including Italy, showed that when these Powers were agreed as regards any particular question nothing could compromise the peace of Europe.

Another event which, while not actually involving Italy, had, nevertheless, given rise to a new campaign against the Fascist régime, was the Vienna rioting. The recent rumours regarding Italy's attitude were so absurd that it was unnecessary to deny them. The Fascist Government never had any intention of interfering with Austria's internal affairs, and the Italian Minister in Vienna had made no démarche of any kind, neither had there been any concentration of troops on the Austrian frontier.

AUSTRIAN PROBLEM.

The Vienna disturbances had once more brought into prominence the problem of Austria's existence as an independent State. The ancient thesis of a Danubian Confederation and of a union with Germany had been dug up again. It was clear that neither of these theses was compatible with the Peace Treaties, and it was especially clear that the union of Austria with Germany would make a tremendous difference to the political map of Europe as established by the Treaties of Versailles and of Saint Germain. Italy would not modify her attitude on this matter.

Signor Mussolini then referred to the Geneva Disarmament Conference, which, he said, was being followed with keen interest by politicians throughout the world. Italy had sent two experts to attend the Conference.

The Prime Minister also emphasised the importance of the visits of the Yemenite Mission and of the King of Egypt to Rome.

INTERNAL SITUATION.

Turning to the internal situation, Signor Mussolini declared that since the last Cabinet meeting everything had been perfectly quiet. During the last few weeks their chief efforts had been devoted to harmonising economy with the stabilisation of the pound sterling at 90 lire. This operation had been particularly difficult. Reductions in rents had been put into force, and by the end of August all the demands for such reductions, which were, as a matter of fact, not very large, would have been adjudged. These months of economic difficulty, which were not peculiar to Italy, but were general throughout the world, had given rise to international speculations against the Fascist régime, and many lies and imaginary stories had been trumped up, but the real truth was that Italy was to-day the most peaceful and the best organised State in the world, and was, therefore, better able than any other country to surmount all difficulties regarding the settlement of the monetary problem.

DISARMAMENT.

SIR P. CUNLIFFE LISTER ON BRITAIN'S AIM.

Referring to disarmament in a speech at Reading last night, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, President of the Board of Trade, said that with us it was no question of a great fighting fleet, but only of craft designed for the protection of trade routes, along which our food supplies must come. No British Government could forego the minimum of safety in that class of vessel. Conditioned only by that over-riding obligation, we had done, and were doing, everything we could do to obtain a satisfactory settlement.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE URGES AGREEMENT.

Answering a series of questions after his address at the Liberal Summer School, Cambridge, yesterday, Mr. Lloyd George said that he was all in favour of complete understanding with America in regard to armaments. The fact of an understanding was almost more important than the conditions of an understanding. It was so inconceivable that we should ever come into conflict, that he thought we should build an understanding on that assumption.

Asked if he would agree that the more ships America built the safer we should be, Mr. Lloyd George said that he would not like this country to depend upon any other country for its defence. But, so far from the building of warships by America being a reasonable cause of apprehension for us, it was really something that we could look to as a means of support if we were unjustly attacked. That would involve seeing that our quarrels were just. When we had a great and just quarrel in 1914, America ultimately came in, and came in at a very critical moment.

BOUQUETS FROM THE AIR

GREETING TO AMERICAN SCOTS ON THE CLYDE.

An aeroplane dropping boquets of carnations over the Anchor liner Transylvania was part of the rousing welcome accorded yesterday to 800 American Scots who have made a pilgrimage to the homeland to attend the ceremonies connected with the unveiling of the Scottish War Memorial at Edinburgh, which has been built as the result of subscriptions raised in America.

The passengers from New York and Boston sported the tartan and carried their own piper, and at Yorkhill they were given a homely greeting by a large crowd.

The pilgrims, drawn from all ranks of Scottish-American society, will tour Scotland and England, visiting London, Cambridge and other centres before returning to Edinburgh on September 7 for the unveiling by the American Ambassador of the memorial in Prince's street Gardens.

The idea of the memorial was conceived three years ago in the St. Andrew's Society of Philadelphia, and a fund of 50,000 dollars was raised by Scots in every State of America. The memorial consists of a bronze figure of a kilted youth, seated, and grasping a rifle which lies across his knees. Set on a wall behind the figure is a processional frieze, illustrating various phases of the war period.

One of the pilgrims is Mrs. Smith, a septuagenarian, born in Alloa, who left Scotland fifty-one years ago, and now is making her first journey back. Mrs. Smith, who still preserves her Scots tongue, will see on the memorial the name of her son, William Hall Smith, of the 14th Canadian Battalion, who died on war service.

Also on board the liner was a daughter of Mr. Van Lear Black, the American newspaper magnate, who recently made an aerial journey from Holland to the East Indies and back. As the Transylvania was proceeding up the Firth of Clyde Mr. Black's Fokker monoplane circled round the liner, flying low, and dropped three bunches of carnations to his daughter, but only one landed on deck.

DANCE AT THE METROPOLE.

A Cinderella dance, which was organised by the Catholic University School Union, took place last night in the Metropole ballroom, Dublin. Mr. Teddy Brown, with his London band, made his first appearance in Dublin, and the music they supplied was enjoyed by a large company.

Among those present were Mr. M. J. Bowers, hon. secretary; Mr. M. A. Corrigan (Chief State Solicitor) and Mrs. Corrigan, Mr. and Mrs. P. Kelly, Mr. Sarsfield Hogan, Surgeon McArdle, Mr. Arthur Kilduff, Mr. P. A. Corrigan, Miss Eileen Corrigan, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cashin, Mr. J. J. Sheil, Mrs. Richard Butler and party, Mr J. T. Ryan, Mr. Cecil Lavery and party, Mr. R. J. Duggan and party, Dr. Craig, Miss Coleman, Mr. M. J. Mitchell, Dr. White, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cullinan, Mr. L. J. Lawler and Miss Lawler, Mr. J. J. Rooney, Mr. J. B. Delahunty, Mr. J. P. Mulcahy, Mr. Mortimer Conaill and party.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Stocks opened strong. Definite signs of an improvement in business among the basic industries and the pressure of idle funds seeking investment, together with the expectation of an early downward revision in the Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rates and the importance attached to the close affiliation of powerful industrial corporations, caused expanded buying, which lifted numerous shares to "records." The declining trend of the June Railroad earnings was ignored owing to the prospects of large tonnage from the good out-turn of the crops and expectations of an expansion in the fall trade. Du Pont advanced 9 points, Manhattan Electrical Supply 6, Nickelplate, People's Gas and Eastman Kodak 5, Chesapeake and Ohio, International Harvester, General Motors, Baldwin Loco., American Smelting and Refining, Texas and Pacific, and many others 3 to 4 points. The market closed strong. Government Bonds irregular; Railroad Bonds irregular. The day's sales totalled 2,018,000 shares.

Money on call closed steady at 3½ per cent. bid and 4 per cent. asked. Business was done during the day at from 3½ per cent. to 4 per cent., with ruling rate 4 per cent. The last loan was made at 3½ per cent. Sterling exchange steady. Silver unchanged at 56¼.

WHEAT opened steady, ⅛c. to ⅛c. higher, on black rust reports from Montana, North Dakota, and Canada. The market reacted afterwards on bearish crop estimates by Mr. Snow and Messrs. GUINNESS REPORT.

NET PROFIT: £2,264,692.

The report for the year ended 30th June, 1927, of Arthur Guinness, Son and Co., Ltd., states that the net profit for the financial year, after making provision for bad debts, depreciation, the balance of income tax and corporation profits tax, amounts, with the addition of dividends and interest, to £2,264,692 12s. 7d.

The basis on which the company is assessable to corporation profits tax having been determined, the reserve for that tax set up in the balance sheet has been reduced by £260,837 16s. 6d. The amount available for appropriation, therefore, includes this sum, together with £731,837 9s. brought forward from the last account. Of this amount, the directors have placed £200,000 to the credit of reserve, which now stands at £1,900,000. After doing so, and after providing for the dividend on the preference stock and the interim dividend paid on the 1st March on the ordinary stock, there remains available for appropriation the sum of £2,037,367 18s. 1d.

The directors propose, subject to the approval of the general meeting, to apply the sum available in paying on the 1st September next to the ordinary stockholders a final dividend of 12 per cent. for the half-year, together with a bonus of 4 per cent. on the ordinary stock of the company, which, with the interim dividend paid on the 1st March, will be equal to a total dividend for the year ending 30th June, 1927, of 24 per cent. and a bonus of 4 per cent., both free of income tax. This will absorb £1,200,000, thus leaving £837,367 18s. 1d. to be carried forward to the next account.

The Earl of Iveagh, K.P., G.C.V.O., and Lieutenant-Colonel G. W. Addison retire by rotation, and, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election.

The auditors, Messrs. Turquand, Youngs and Co., who also retire, offer themselves for re-election.

The meeting will be held at River Plate House, Finsbury Circus, London, at noon on Wednesday, August 10th.

PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT.

The profit and loss account shows that by sales of stout and sundry products, less manufacturing and trading expenses, £11,504,603 13s. 9d. was received, from which £9,243,382 0s. 7d. must be deducted, bringing it down to £2,261,221 16s. 2d. The deductions consist of £8,559,533 15s. 4d. on account of Excise, Customs and licence duties, less drawback £610,848 5s. 3d. on account of balance of income tax, and £73,0000 on account of corporation profits tax.

The net profit of £2,264,692 12s. 7d. includes £125,338 4s. 10d. dividends on investments and £74,469 19s. 6d. balance of interest.

The balance sheet shows that stocks on hand of malt, hops, barley and stout amount to £3,247,439 5s., and miscellaneous stocks to £520,945 14s. 11d. Investments are £2,491,234 5s. 3d., and represent a value below current market price, while cash at bankers on deposit and current accounts, short-term Treasury bills, and cash in hand amounts to £2,067,669 7s.

NURSE KILLED BY LIVE SHELL.

BABY'S NARROW ESCAPE.

A live shell, which had been picked up by two cadets on the Down near Lulworth Camp, exploded when thrown on to the road and killed a nurse named Cap. A baby in a perambulator which the nurse was wheeling escaped injury. Nurse Cap was employed by Captain Rimington, of the Royal Tank Corps, a son of Major-General Sir Michael Rimington. Captain Rimington when in Dublin was a well-known member of the Irish Polo Club.

BOY ATTACKS LITTLE GIRL.

"I HIT HER WITH A HORSE-SHOE."

At the Juvenile Court in Thirsk, Yorks, yesterday, a fourteen-year-old boy was committed to a reformatory for three years for inflicting grievious bodily harm on a girl, aged three and a half. The accused boy was originally charged with attempted murder. The child was injured in her mother's absence.

A police inspector said that when cautioned and charged, the boy, after hesitation, said: "well, I did do it; I don't know what I was doing at the time. I kicked her accidentally with my foot, and then I seemed to go mad. I hit her with a horseshoe." When asked to produce his knife, he complied, but said: "I didn't use that."

SILENT PUSH BALL MATCH.

DEAF AND DUMB PLAYERS AND SPECTATORS.

A push ball match at Durham last evening was contested in silence. The players, who were drawn from various parts of the Northern Counties, were deaf and dumb, the spectators, of whom there were over three hundred, and who displayed the keenest interest in the game, also were deaf and dumb, and the referee gave his instructions to the teams by means of signs.

The Archdeacon of Auckland, who distributed the prizes after a programme of racing events had been gone through, made a speech, which was interpreted to his audience.

MISHAP TO ENGLISH HOLIDAY TRAIN.

A mishap occurred to a Southern Railway excursion train crowded with holiday makers from Basingstoke just after it had passed through Christchurch yesterday morning. People on Christchurch station heard a loud bang and saw the train pull up with a jerk.

Examination of the engine revealed the fact that the connecting rod of the piston had broken, tearing away the piston head and part of the iron under-carriage of the engine. The result was considerable delay in the holiday traffic until the disabled engine could be side-tracked. No one was injured.

SEAMEN SUPPORT MR. HAVELOCK WILSON.

SUSPENSION OF GENERAL SECRETARY.

Several members of the National Union of Seamen were suspended at a special conference of the Union in London yesterday, and a Committee of Investigation was set up to inquire into the charges against them.

Two rival agendas were issued for the meeting, one by Mr. Havelock Wilson, the President, and the other by Mr. N. J. Davies, the General Secretary.

Mr. Wilson characterised the Secretary's agenda as slovenly, whereupon Mr. Davies protested, put on his hat and walked out.

Mr. Wilson then suspended three officials, Mr. Joseph Cotter, organiser of the catering department; Mr. H. T. Bond, District Secretary, London, and Mr. Max Philips, Secretary, Tower Hill Branch.

Mr. Wilson said that he could not work with the Secretary under the present conditions, but he had no power to suspend him.

The Standing Orders Committee then brought forward a motion that the General Secretary be suspended from office fortwith, pending a report by a sub-committee into the allegations against him, and this was carried.

Mr. Cathery, for many years Secretary of the Union, was appointed Secretary pro tem.

The conference endorsed the action of the Executive in allocating to the Miners' Non-Political Union £10,000 as a loan, free of interest.

Mr. Wilson said that no step would be taken to spend a penny of the funds until the action now pending for an injunction had been decided.

The injunction to prevent the payment of the £10,000 is being sought by a minority of the Executive.

The Union agreed not to send delegates to the Trades Union Congress this year.

There were enthusiastic scenes when a vote of confidence was passed in Mr. J. Havelock Wilson, and it was unanimously decided that he should retain the Presidency.

This was followed by much cheering and the singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow."

Mr. Wilson has proclaimed his resolve to "liberate" the trade union movement from its entanglement with the Socialist Party, and to foster the creation of non-political unions, with the ultimate object of forming a federation of these bodies in opposition to the T.U.C. His support of the Miners' Non-Political Union is a step in the development of this policy, as is the vigorous platform campaign he has been carrying on in recent months, with the assistance of Mr. Frank Hodges, for industrial peace.

STATEMENT BY EXPELLED MEMBERS.

The suspended members marched to a dance hall in the neighbourhood and held a meeting themselves, which they claimed was the real meeting of the Union.

According to a statement which the expelled members made after their expulsion, it was their intention to challenge Mr. Wilson's right to remove them from the Conference. They were, they said, prepared to hold another conference of the thirty delegates who supported their constitutional policy, and would be joined in due course by Mr. Davies who, because of his official position, could not be summarily expelled.

The statement added that the General Secretary had decided to visit the branches himself and test the feelings of members on the expediency of voting this £10,000 loan. He instructed Mr. Cotter, Organiser, to accompany him, as well as Mr. Max Philips, Branch Secretary, and Mr. Harry Bond, London District Secretary. Meetings were held at all the London and at several of the provincial branches, and resolutions passed unanimously protesting against the President's action. But when it was seen what effect their meetings were having Mr. Wilson took measures to prevent others being held.

WORK OF FORESTERS' ORDER.

A CENTURY'S FAILURES AND ACHIEVEMENTS.

In his Presidential address to Foresters at their High Court at Reading yesterday, Brother George Quiller, Edinburgh, High Chief Ranger, said that Foresters must not rest satisfied until every member of the community had the right, if they so desired, to contribute under the National Health Insurance for the benefits offered. The history of their Order revealed a century of ceaseless striving, of splendid successes, of splendid failures, of dreams and great achievements. Its labours had made homes sweeter and brighter, communities purer and healthier, and, in many ways, had contributed to the welfare of the country.

AEROPLANE MISHAP.

DROWNED HEROINE.

SEAPLANE AND MOTOR BOATS SEARCH FOR BODIES.

A seaplane and motor boats were used yesterday in Bournemouth Bay in an unavailing search for the bodies of Miss Angela Marten and her brother, Lawrence Marten, who, with another brother, Henry, were drowned in the Studland boating disaster on Saturday.

The body of Henry Marten was washed ashore at Boscombe on Sunday.

A WET DAY AT COWES.

KING'S CUTTER BEATEN.

The first day of the Royal London Yacht Club Regatta at Cowes was marred by rain, which fell all day, except for about a quarter of an hour at lunch time. The keen yachting men and women out on their own craft, or watching from the front the competitors in the various events, formed one section of the visitors for Cowes week, and the other section spent the day on the verandas of the hotels.

Women went about in scarlet mackintoshes and berets, or in yellow oilskins and sou'westers and rubber top boots.

Visitors who hoped to see the King's cutter, Britannia, win the handicap race for big yachts were disappointed. Westward won easily, and was followed across the line by White Heather, which was second; Shamrock was third and Lulworth fourth. The King was on the Britannia during the races in the forenoon, and the Queen came ashore during the afternoon and motored to Ryde.

LINER AND WHALE IN COLLISION.

INCIDENT OFF SOUTH COAST OF IRELAND.

The story of how a liner rammed a large whale was related on the arrival of the White Star liner Baltic at Liverpool from New York yesterday morning. When the vessel was off the South coast of Ireland last Sunday afternoon a bump was felt forward, followed by a succession of slight blows. Investigations were made, and a whale, about eighteen feet in length, was seen impaled on the bow of the ship, and it was then observed that the slapping sound was caused by the monster's huge tail flapping against the vessel's side. The captain stopped the ship and signalled the engineers to go astern, and the whale then floated clear, when it was seen that it had received a big wound about three feet deep in the back of the neck. The Baltic then proceeded to Liverpool.

The great majority of the human race must get its living by manual labour, and it will not do to train up our children to be discontented with manual labour.—Mr. Somerville, M.P.

O'K

A WOMAN CENTENARIAN.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Leicester, widow of a local tradesman, yesterday celebrated her hundredth birthday anniversary. She was born at Measham Lodge, near Ashby, and remembers a visit of Queen Charlotte, wife of King William IV., to Measham. When congratulated and told that it was a great distinction to have lived a hundred years, she replied: "It depends on how you have lived them."

LEOPARDSTOWN RACES.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AND BAD WEATHER.

It was somewhat disappointing that weather such as that which prevailed last Saturday was not enjoyed yesterday, when crowds flocked to the Leopardstown course for one of the most sporting events of the season. It was amusing to note how little faith people had in the promise of fine weather, so many came provided with mackintoshes and umbrellas. The filmy, fragile toilettes, so admired on Saturday, had been replaced by more serviceable suits. True, the showers did not last long, and in the intervals the sun shone gaily and everyone seemed in the best of spirits. The attendance included, besides many who were present on Saturday, several of the foreign officers who are taking part in the Army International Jumping competitions at Ballsbridge this week.

Among the company in the Club enclosure were Viscountess Powerscourt and the Hon. Doreen Wingfield, Lord Glenavy, Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, Sir Thomas Dixon, Captain Herbert Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Fitzpatrick and Lady Mary Grosvenor; Miss Brooke, Sir Lingard and Lady Goulding, Sir Michael and Lady O'Loghlen, General Sir Bryan and Lady Mahon and their party from Mullaboden; the Hon. Mrs. Barry, Captain and Miss Moira Brassey, Lady Latta, the Rt. Hon. T. K. Laidlaw, the Misses Laidlaw, Captain Charles Moore, Lady Chance, Miss Chance, Colonel and Mrs. Page Croft, Major Henley, Secretary to the South African Jockey Club; Colonel A. J. Blake, Captain Boyd-Rochfort, V.C.; Mrs. Boyd-Rochfort, Mrs. and Miss Chambers, Sir Simon Maddock, Mr. and Miss Everard, Captain L. J. Arnott, Colonel Stacpole, Miss Kenny and party, Major Cape, Mr G. S. Shackleton, Mrs. Mitchell, Colonel Clarke, Mr. Maxwell Arnott, Captain and Mrs. Hope, Miss Adrienne Hope, Mr. and Mrs. A. FIRE IN DUBLIN BAKERY.

The Dublin Fire Brigade, under Captain Power, was called yesterday afternoon to Messrs. Downes's bakery establishment in North Earl street. The bakers were at work when from one of the oven fires, which are oil-fed, they noticed flames shooting out into the compartment. On their arrival the firemen at once directed their attention to saving the oil tank from becoming involved and cut off the supply of oil to the oven, and in a short time they had succeeded in getting the fire under control. The roof over where the fire originated and a dressing-room were damaged.

DUBLIN AMUSEMENTS THIS WEEK.

"THE BLUE MAZURKA" AT THE GAIETY.

The Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, has provided nothing better for a Horse Show week than the new Lehar musical comedy, "The Blue Mazurka," which last night began a fortnight's run. Everyone came away pleased, and—as in the days when musical comedy was both musical and funny—humming the air of "Love is best of all."

"The Blue Mazurka" had a long run at Daly's Theatre, London, before it was sent out on tour. The production this week is as close as possible to the London one. George Graves is in his original part as the droll General von Spatz, whose funny sayings tumble over one another. To catch all the humour of George Graves in this his latest part one must go to the Gaiety Theatre many times.

"The Blue Mazurka" is more on the lines of the musical comedy of the old days than anything of the genre that has been heard for some years. A fairly substantial story carries with it a great deal of good music, with the waltz flavour about it; there is an abundance of pretty dancing, not of the ultra modern type, and there is any amount of spectacle, song and chorus scenas, which make the production the completely satisfying entertainment that it is.

After Mr. Graves, who stands out by himself as a musical comedian, the individual successes are those of Miss Virginia Perry, Miss Anona Winn, and Mr. Horace Percival. Miss Perry sings beautifully throughout the two acts, whether by herself or in duet with Mr. Trevor Watkins, as Julian the hero.

Miss Winn was welcomed back to the Gaiety after her triumph as "the Naughty Girl" in "A Greek Slave" a few months ago. This clever young Australian is as full of vitality as ever. She is at once singer, dancer, comedienne, pantomimist. From her first coming on she was recalled for everything she did, except, of course, for her contribution to the final tableau. Some of the best of her work was helped by the fine acting of Mr. Horace Percival, who is an exceptionally clever comedian and a good dancer.

The costumes, changed frequently, are a treat to the eye, and the augmented orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Sheridan Gordon, does its part to make "The Blue Mazurka" what it is.

THEATRE ROYAL.

The revue, "By Request," which is being presented this week at the Theatre Royal by Archie Pitt, is far above and beyond anything in that line which has been seen here for a very long time. It is a composition of mirth and music and light comedy, which ripples along very pleasantly through sixteen scenes, in the course of which there is not a dull moment.

The company, all round, is well up to its work, and the result is an entertainment that keeps the audience in the best of humour from beginning to end. The scene, "True Love," in which Edith and Tommy Fields appear as sweethearts, Cedric Miller as the clergyman whom Edith would not marry, even at the urgent request of her mother, and Gracie Fields as the servant, would make the gravest spectator laugh. Miss Gracie Fields is a wonderfully versatile artist. She can sing finely, she can dance gracefully, and can act the part of the low comedienne with a keen sense of humour in every situation. The scene, "New Friends"—next-door neighbours—is amusing. The Pitt Girls gave a series of artistic dances.

Other members who contribute to a most successful show are Amy Brownson, Ernest Hire, Bert Brownbill, Nna Grenoff, Ethel and Iris Smallman and Nino Rossini. The stage settings were brilliant.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.

At the Olympia Theatre last night a large holiday audience enjoyed Mr. John MacDonagh's revue, "The Goods." There were several new sketches. The scenery and costumes were highly attractive. The former was the work of the Slade Studio, London, and Miss Whelan, Dublin, was responsible for the latter. Mr. Jimmy O'Dea filled many rôles, and did his work faultlessly throughout. Miss Kathleen McCully, late of the O'Mara Opera Company, was a singer of exceptional merit. With Eric Marsh she sang the duet, "Mysterious Eyes." Yola and De Winton gave some clever dancing exhibitions and Moly Douglas, Tom Dunne, Ena Stanton, Fred Hyde and Vera Elsom all filled their parts excellently. A pretty sketch was the eviction scene in which some excellent songs were introduced. All the performers were heartily applauded. The revue was produced by Mr. Philip F. Howley, of the Charlot revues.

ABBEY THEATRE.

Last night the Abbey Theatre was filled in every part, and among the audience there were many visitors, who, together with Abbey habitués, thoroughly enjoyed the production of "The Big House," the play by Mr. Lennox Robinson, which has not been done in this theatre for several months. Dealing with the period from 1918 till 1923, the four scenes of the play are reminiscent of the revolver, bomb and petrol tin, but they are not all fearsome and terrifying. The sparkling dialogue was followed by the laughter of an appreciative audience. The acting was convincing. Barry Fitzgerald had a part in which he had no opportunity to be funny, but he proved once more that he is quite equal to the tragic and emotional rôle. Eileen Crowe and Sheilah Richards had characters which suited them, and F. J. McCormick made a strong impression by his portrayal of Captain Despard. The other characters were ably filled by P. J. Carolan, Michael J. Dolan, Arthur Shields, Aoiffe Taaffe, John Stephenson, M. Scott and Walter Dillon.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday "Juno and the Paycock" will be produced.

CAPITOL THEATRE.

ATTRACTIVE REOPENING PROGRAMME.

Double the seating accommodation in the Capitol Theatre (late La Scala), Dublin, would not have sufficed for the many who sought admission last night, when the house was reopened under new management.

Every seat was occupied, and the programme not only reached a very high standard of excellence, but it was delightfully varied. Alec B. Fryer's Band, so well and favourably known to listeners-in, both across Channel and in the Irish Free State, gave distinct pleasure by a rendering of syncopated numbers. Among these "In a Monastery Garden" was beautifully played, and there was an enthusiastic encore. The Capitol Tiller Girls appeared in very dainty costumes in a series of pretty dances. Most of these were new to Dublin audiences, but each was tasteful and brilliantly executed. The vocal numbers which they introduced were quite a treat.

The films included Harold Lloyd in "The Kid Brother." This picture is exclusive to the Capitol, and it is only necessary to say that it is one of the artist's most enjoyable comedies. While it was being shown there was an epidemic of laughter in every part of the house. The other films showed some of the outstanding events during the last week, including the official reception of the United States Minister in Dublin. In addition there were some short and very amusing comedies.

Since the change of ownership the theatre has been redecorated and relighted, and if last night's programme is to be taken as indication of the quality of future catering, the Capitol should become one of the pleasantest places in which to spend an afternoon or evening in Dublin.

A FILM OF THE WEEK.

"THE BETTER 'OLE" AT THE CORINTHIAN.

"The Better 'Ole," which is shown at the Corinthian Picture House, Dublin, this week, is a film that should draw large crowds. Syd Chaplin as "Ole Bill" is incomparable in his presentation of the many humorous situations and in his resourceful handling of other situations that are far from humorous. It would be hard to imagine any problem which Bruce Bairnsfather's inimitable creation cannot be trusted to face with a sagacity that even the sight of a firing squad fails to stampede. The supporting cast includes Jack Ackroyd, as "Ole Bill's" inseparable and troublesome companion; "Alf," Doris Hill Harold Goodwin, Theodore Lorch, E. Kennedy, Charles Gerrard, Tom McGuire, Kewpie Morgan, Tom Kennedy and Arthur Clayton. The picture is full piece of merriment, no matter what uncomfortable portion of the Western front is depicted—trenches, estaminets or dug-outs; but the cream of the whole affair comes when "Ole Bill" and "Alf" find themselves so securely sewed up inside the skin of a theatrical property horse that they have to remain behind when the Germans arrive. But "Ole Bill," of course, made the tight corner into a strategic position and scored all round.

EAST WALL BOYS' NATIONAL SCHOOL.

INTERESTING REUNION.

Mr. John Homan, Peace Commissioner, late headmaster of East Wall Boys' National School, was "at home" to his former pupils, over sixty of whom attended, at Wynn's Hotel, Lower Abbey street, Dublin, last Saturday.

Mr. Frank Moran, who was present, was congratulated on having won fifth place out of six hundred candidates for the training colleges, and his brother John on securing a similarly high place in the competition for the new preparatory colleges. Solos and duets were rendered by Messrs. William O'Doherty, Francis Malcolmson, Walter Shoebridge, Sam Mooney, Peter Jackson, Denis Brady and William Shiels, with piano accompaniment by Messrs. Richard Merlehan, Sam Mooney and William Shoebridge. Mr. James Butler danced a hornpipe. Mr. William Mooney declaimed the whole of the first scene from Shakespeare's "Julius Cæsar." It was decided to make the union a periodical event.

The Committee of the St. Vincent de Paul Free Night Shelter for Catholic Men, Back lane, Dublin, report that the admissions to the institution during July numbered 2,333, and then 4,566 meals were given free.

IRISH ATHLETES' FINE WIN AT CROKE PARK.

THRILLING VICTORY OF N. J. McEACHERN.

IRISH RECORDS BROKEN.

IRELAND	20½ points.
ACHILLES A.C.	15½ "

With nine of the dozen events decided at Croke Park yesterday, it did not seem possible that Ireland would repeat last season's victory over the Achilles A.C. At that stage the visitors were leading by 15½ points to 11½ points. With the long jump over, the position, from the Irish viewpoint, was even worse. But Ireland achieved a success in the four miles as decisive as it was unexpected, and a first and second in the discus placed the home team one point ahead.

In that way the result of the contest hinged on the relay race. A win for Achilles in that event would have made a draw of it. With D. G. A. Lowe, perhaps the greatest half-miler in the world, running for Achilles on the last two circuits against Norman McEachern, no one conversant with the capabilities of the Olympic champion would have ventured to express even the hope that Ireland would retain the lead. But, as in the four miles, so it was in this race. The Clonliffe Harrier ran the race of his life, and he literally ran the champion off his legs in the last 250 yards.

McEACHERN'S STRONG FINISH.

For the first quarter Lowe, who was compelled by Moore to give a start of little more than a yard to McEachern, was content to tread on the heels of the Clonliffe Harrier. As they came out of the bend on the far side Lowe increased the length of his stride, and we prepared ourselves for one of his thrilling finishes. But just as the sporting crowd which filled the stands stood up to acclaim, thus early, the triumph of Lowe and his team of excellent sportsmen, McEachern, with a deer-like bound, responded to the challenge. With lengthening strides Lowe lessened the gap of rather more than three yards. But the Dublin man, much sooner than is his wont, began to spurt.

The spectators roared themselves hoarse as he gradually increased the distance between himself and the champion, for everyone realised that Lowe was beaten. The crowd swarmed over the paling, and with a great burst in the straight, McEachern finished his race down an avenue of wildly-excited admirers, almost twenty yards to the good.

McEachern's time for the half mile was 1 min. 56 2-5th secs., but, of course, it is not an Irish record for the distance, though it is better than G. N. Morphy's 1 min. 56 4-5th secs. for the half mile set up in 1905. The time returned for the full mile was 3 mins. 33 2-5 secs., and if it were official time it would easily beat the Clonliffe Harrier's record of 3 mins. 35 2-5 secs. But the chief consideration is that McEachern's victory won the match for Ireland. It was a great personal triumph for the Clonliffe Harrier; but it must not be forgotten that the whole Irish team contributed to the success.

RECORD-MAKING.

A more interesting contest has never been provided by the National Athletic and Cycling Association, which governs athletics in this country. The performances also were exceedingly good; indeed, two Irish records were lowered—G. C. Weightman-Smith being timed at 15 1-5 secs. in the 120 yards hurdles (the ground was officially measured afterwards), and Lowe doing 49 2-5 secs. in the quarter, to beat Sean Lavan's record of 50 secs. made over the same track.

Lowe ran a brilliant quarter to beat Lavan by about three yards. From the pistol he went off in front of the University College man, and after going two hundred yards he was leading by four yards. Then Lavan applied the pressure, but, though he ran himself right out, he could not overtake his rival, who put in a characteristic finish, which must have affected his running in the relay.

Another very excellent performance was that accomplished by Lieutenant Coughlan in the four miles. Originally he was not selected for this event, but the Irish Committee was in a difficulty, as P. Coyle had cried off. Lieutenant Coughlan had never run four miles, and it seemed like courting trouble to ask him to accompany P. Groarke, the Irish champion, over the distance. But the soldier promptly filled the gap and, what is more, won, beating his countryman by twenty yards, his strong finish being one of the best things of the meeting. The intermediate times were—first mile (Groarke), 5 mins. 1 sec.; second mile (Groarke), 10 mins. 40 secs.; third mile (Coughlan), 15 mins. 4 secs.; four miles, 21 mins. 2 3-5 secs.

The 220 yards was a grand race to watch. For the last fifty yards it was a rare set-to between Rinkel and Lavan, but the Achilles representative held on to his lead to win by a yard in the very good time of 22 2-5 secs., the Irish record being 22 1-5 secs.

Rinkel had opened the programme by a splendid victory in the 100 yards, in which the Irish pair were outclassed; and then came a one-sided win for McEachern in the half-mile, V. P. Brown being beaten by twenty yards in 1 min. 57 secs. Lieutenant Coughlan ran a good and plucky race in the mile, which V. E. Morgan won by only five yards.

Of the field events, Ireland won the high jump, the shot and the discus, the hammer going to Achilles; but it was unfortunate that M. C. Noakes sprained his ankle so badly when throwing the hammer that he was unable to turn out for the shot.

CRICKET.

NARROW VICTORY OF LEINSTER.

BRILLIANT BATTING BY J. B. GANLY.

The first meeting of the season between Leinster and Phœnix in the Senior League provided a keen and exciting match yesterday at Rathmines, Leinster winning not many minutes before time by 29 runs. For their victory the Rathmines club have to thank J. B. Ganly, who, by a brilliant display of batting, enabled his side to reach a total of 187.

At the start of the innings this figure did not look likely, as C. M. Hill, W. S. Kelly, and J. Anderson were out with only 27 on the board. Ganly, who came in first wicket down, scored at a rapid rate, and was not dismissed till he had made 94. He was second last out, and the innings altogether was in progress two and a half hours. It was quite one of the best innings the old St. Columba's College boy has played. He scored all round the wicket, and from the outset played with confidence. He gave but one chance, and that at 75, when he might have been held by Hone at long off, and included in his total were a 6 and eleven 4's.

R. T. Sheppard, who made 21, assisted Ganly to add 64 for the fourth wicket, while in R. D. Lambert he found another useful partner, the pair helping to add 42 for the ninth wicket. Lambert batted finely for 32 not out, and hit five boundaries. E. L. Kidd, with six wickets for 52 runs, proved the most successful of the Phœnix bowlers.

The visitors, like Leinster, started poorly, losing W. M. Hutton and D. R. Pigot at 14, while E. L. Kidd was out at 35. Then H. de Burgh and A. P. Kelly struck up a good partnership, and the score was advanced to 80, when Kelly was bowled by Reddy for 11. De Burgh batted in stylish fashion, but when 51 he was out l.b.w. to R. D. Lambert. He gave one chance and hit six 4's. With the exception of W. P. Hone, who got 26, none of the others gave much trouble, and the innings closed for 158. J. D. Alison got four wickets for 39, R. D. Lambert three for 35, and F. J. Reddy three for 36 runs.

The fielding of Leinster was exceptionally keen, and Ganly, Hill, and Kelly all brought off brilliant catches. Score:—

VISITORS IN STRONG POSITION.

At the close of the first day's play in the match between the Province of Ulster and Cambridge Crusaders at Ormeau, Belfast, yesterday, the visitors had a lead of 40 runs, with all their wickets intact, in their second innings. The wicket was on the slow side, and the Crusaders, batting first, found runs difficult to get. G. E. Blundell and H. E. Hope put on 37 for the first wicket, and the first-named, who was also concerned in a partnership of 38 runs for the fourth wicket, got top score with 32. C. Allen, with four for 23, was Ulster's best bowler. The Ulster team found run-getting just as difficult as their opponents had done, and were all dismissed for 98. W. G. Loughrey hit four boundaries in his 20, and H. Dearden batted steadily for 16. W. F. Mackenzie bowled splendidly, and his fast deliveries captured six wickets for 27. In ten minutes at the end Crusaders obtained four runs without loss. Scores:—

JUNIOR INTERPROVINCIAL.

LEINSTER v. ULSTER.

As a result of a full day's play in the Junior Interprovincial between Leinster and Ulster, at the Pembroke C.C. ground, Sydney parade yesterday, the Northerners left off in a commanding position, as compiling 138 in their first innings, and dismissing Leinster for 64, they left off with 80 for the loss of only four wickets in their second venture, and are now 154 runs ahead, with six wickets in hand. Batting first on a good wicket, Ulster lost Black for 2, but Livingstone and McCleery (who, by the way, plays Soccer for Blackburn Rovers) took the score to 49, when the latter was bowled for 17. N. Burke stayed with Livingstone till the century was sent up in seventy-five minutes, but Livingstone was then run out with 50 to his credit. Burke got 30, and Ulster were 109 for four wickets at lunch. Rain then came on and affected the pitch, so that wickets fell rapidly. Carson scored 15, but the innings ended at 138, Ulster batting a man short. F. W. Hirst took four wickets for 31, L. Barry three for 28, and J. H. Ross one for 30.

Leinster made a bad start, and never got going, six wickets being down for 40, and all were dismissed for 64. Hirst (11 not out) and N. O'C. Redmond (10) were the only double figures. The side had the worse of the luck, two men being run out, one stumped and one leg before, while the stumps were only hit four times. Martin had three wickets for 7, Carson two for 19, McCandless two for 17, and Browne one for 15. Going in again Ulster made 80 for the loss of four wickets (Black not out 39 and Burke 29). Play will be resumed to-day at 10.30 a.m. Score:—

BLUE CROSS DOG SHOW.

SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION.

The Blue Cross Committee held a successful Show yesterday in Lord Iveagh's grounds in aid of the Blue Cross Association. The grounds are very suitable for a Show, and the various rings were surrounded by large crowds throughout the day. On the whole, the weather was fine, but in the afternoon a couple of sharp showers drove spectators and exhibitors alike to the shelter of the trees, but despite these few interruptions the judges got through their work with satisfaction.

The entries were well over six hundred, the best supported breed being the Alsatian, drawing fifty-four dogs, making an entry of one hundred and four for the breed. Fox Terriers were the next best, while Kerry Blues and Irish Terriers were much in evidence. The Toy Section, although there was a small classification, drew a good entry.

GROTESQUE'S FORM.

GOOD PERFORMANCE OF VALOIS.

A DEAD-HEAT.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

SANDOWN, Monday Night.

A few unpleasant words have to be said first of all about the weather for the Bank holiday meeting here. It was atrocious, for the rain poured incessantly from early morning until the last race had been run. In the circumstances the attendance was surprisingly good. There was nothing of vast interest in the racing of the afternoon, except the performance of Wootton's two-year-old, Grotesque, who won the holiday T.-Y.-O. Plate by no less than five lengths from the Market Girl colt, after taking the lead when they had gone less than half-way, and then drawing right away to win without an effort.

Taylor came to the meeting to saddle the Market Girl colt, and he fancied his chance a great deal. The last time this son of Son-in-Law ran he finished five lengths behind Flamingo in the National Breeders' Stakes when the winner had all the advantage of the start. We rate Flamingo a very smart one, and he was giving the Market Girl colt 7lb. As Grotesque was giving him 10lb. this afternoon and beat him more easily, on collateral form Grotesque comes out a good one.

He is a son of Farman, and only cost his owner 430 guineas. He has won in all five races this season, and since he first ran as a fancied horse he has been beaten only by Lady Helen McCalmont's little filly Take a Glass, of whom I wrote after she had won at Alexandra Park on Saturday. As she seemed to beat him fairly and squarely at weight for sex at Nottingham her form looks particularly good. It is a pity there is not more of her for she has great speed.

ELLIOTT GETS VALOIS HOME.

Another nice performance of the day was that of Sir G. Bullough's Poltava colt, Valois, who won the North Surrey Handicap by a length from the tubed Despatch, with The Cheetah third and Clonespoe, who seems to have trained off, fourth. There was a time in the straight when it appeared as if Valois would be cut off, but Elliott pulled him round to the outside, and, beginning a strong run, he cut down the others well.

By his success to-day he gains a 5lb. penalty for the Chepstow Summer Cup on Saturday, and another entry for that race, Frank Bare, also gained a penalty when he beat Strange Times and Fair Charlotte in the Apprentices' Plate.

In the course of the afternoon G. Richards won two races outright and dead-heated for another. The dead-heat was made in the first event, the Lammas Plate, in which he rode Jack's Son. Foolish Lad made all the running, but Richards by a forceful piece of riding got his mount up on the post to divide the stakes. In the Selling Handicap he rode Jane's Son for Mr. G. Hartigan, and, making all the running on the son of Sonning he won by three lengths from Dark Lad, who made up half-a-dozen lengths in the straight. The stable let the winner go for 260 gns.

Richards' third winner was Queen's Bower, who won the Lubbock Sprint by four lengths. She had run second in the Stewards' Cup, and as her ascent in the handicap was automatic her owner thought she might as well pick up this prize before she was re-handicapped, as it would make very little difference to her future weighting. Lord Wembley was the only one of the opposition who counted, and as he will do nothing on a racecourse odds of 3 to 1 were betted on the filly, who had no difficulty in disposing of Lord Wembley.

SATURN'S CHANCE.

We have three meetings again to-morrow, at Brighton, Birmingham and Ripon. If SATURN runs for the Brighton Stakes he should win, for he was unlucky in the London Cup, where he was nearly brought on his knees. In his absence the best would be PANTERA. The Marine Plate is open, and I choose GOLDEN WILLOW, an unlucky loser to Pinault at Sandown, and who was nearly knocked over at the start at Goodwood, to beat Nadia and Proconsul. SMITH SEAL may win the Alfriston Plate.

Golden Araby runs for the Midland Plate at Birmingham, and may be opposed by Grand Vixen, though the plans in regard to the latter may be changed. GOLDEN ARABY should win Halalie, who won the London Cup and was beaten since at Bath, runs for the August Handicap, but I do not think she will give the weight to CETEB, a useful colt in easy going, who is expected to win here. ORTEMA has been unlucky in recent races, and should beat the others in the Coventry Plate.

The best at Ripon may be CARAMOND, if this is his chosen engagement, in the Ripon City Welter Handicap; while GOLDEN HARP FILLY should win the Claro Maiden Plate.

LEOPARDSTOWN.

THE GRAND PRIZE.

A THRILLING FINISH.

VICTORY OF CARDINAL'S RING.

The scene at Leopardstown yesterday was reminiscent of old times, and not for a considerable period has the picturesquely situated enclosure held such a brilliant company as that which witnessed a splendid race for the big event of the meeting, the Grand Prize. Several sharp showers fell early on, driving the people to shelter, but the remainder of the afternoon turned out gloriously fine, and the course and its beautiful surroundings were seen to the greatest advantage in the brilliant sunshine. The attendance included many distinguished visitors from England and abroad, who are here for the Horse Show and the racing, and some of the foreign officers who will be competing in the jumping competitions at Ballsbridge were also interested spectators of an excellent day's sport.

The Grand Prize has often in the past provided a very good race, but never a better one than yesterday, and it was only after as thrilling and exciting a finish as one could wish to see that Cardinal's Ring prevailed over Industrious and Swift Marten. His very quick beginning was no small factor in his ultimate success, but, still, he could afford to swerve and lose ground in the last hundred yards and just maintain his position at the head of affairs. Swift Marten was the victim of ill-luck, inasmuch as, after overcoming the initial advantages of not getting away as well as some of the others, he was rapidly lessening the gap between himself and Cardinal's Ring just as the latter swerved and slightly interfered with him, but not sufficiently so to affect the result. The honours of the race, however, were his, for he was endeavouring to concede 10lb. to to the winner and 4lb. to Industrious, and only failed by a neck and a head in the attempt.

A SURPRISE.

One of the surprises of the race was the performance of Industrious, who made up a great deal of ground in the last furlong, and was going faster than anything else in the closing stages. Dohora, after showing a fine burst of speed for about three furlongs, was unable to maintain the effort, and lost her place, and neither Some Pep nor Dione ever shaped like a potential winner, a remark that applies to Dame Agnes, who got none too well away from the barrier. Cardinal's Ring is the property of Mrs. C. L. Mackean, and is by Jackdaw out of Bernsone by Farasi. Bred by the late Mr. James Hooney, of Kilcullen, County Kildare, the colt was sent up by the executors to Goff's Ballsbridge sales last year, when he was purchased for 90 gns. by Mr. Mackean, of Soldennis fame, for his wife, and he is yet another instance of the numerous bargains picked up at these sales. Cardinal's Ring is engaged in the Phœnix Plate at Phœnix Park next Saturday, but he is not likely to be started, and the Heath stable will be represented by Chardon in that valuable race, which is arousing such keen interest, which is not surprising, in view of its importance and the fact that the cream of the Irish two-year-olds will contest it.

Always hard to beat in races of this description, East Galway, who had not been seen in public for some time, made short work of the opposition in the Sugar Loaf Plate, none of the others being capable of extending the top weight. Another easy win was that of Abbey Lane in the Paddock Selling Plate, in which she wore down Alice Orb and Lady Glendoe to gain a ready victory, and at the ensuing auction fetched 300 sovs., the purchaser being Mr. J. A. Barry, who hails from the other side of the Channel.

A GREAT FINISH.

Heartburn accounted for five other moderates in the Tower Plate; and in the Shankill Plate, Royal Heroine, who was saddled in preference to Fly Maid, made light of her 7lb. penalty, incurred for her win at this venue a fortnight ago. She has certainly shown a decided partiality for the Leopardstown track, where she now registered her third success. Short Skirt again let her connections down, and so far this season has signally failed to reproduce her form of last year. Kooinur ran very well, and for a long way threatened danger to the ultimate winner, but Antaeus once more failed to run up to expectations.

For the wind-up we were treated to a great finish for the Welter Plate, and the books got a nice turn when the outsider, Laudamus, beat the well-backed Bell's Hill by a head. Laudamus is a stable companion of East Galway at Greenmount, and Mr. M. Arnott thus had the satisfaction of saddling the winners of the first and last events on the card. By the way, East Galway was very nearly late for his race owing to the train on which he was travelling being delayed en route. Details:—

2.0—THE SUGAR LOAF HANDICAP PLATE of 100 sovs., of which the second receives 15 sovs., and the third 5 sovs. A handicap flat race. 1½ m.

Betting—5 to 4 on EAST GALWAY, 3 to 1 agst. Fiddleback, 5 to 1 Annan Dale, 100 to 16 Marchesi.

Marchesi set the pace to East Galway, Fiddleback and Annan Dale until two furlongs from home, when East Galway took command, and won by two lengths; six lengths divided second and third. Time—1 min. 44 1-5 secs.

2.30—THE PADDOCK SELLING PLATE of 100 sovs., of which the second receives 10 sovs., and the third 5 sovs. For two-year-olds. 5 f.

(Winner trained by H. I. Ussher.)

Betting—Evens ABBEY LANE, 7 to 4 agst. Lady Glendoe, 5 to 1 Alice Orb, 20 to 1 any other.

Lady Glendoe made the running from Alice Orb and Abbey Lane to below the distance, where Alice Orb showed in front, but was headed close home by Abbey Lane, who won by a length; half a length divided second and third. Irish Daisy was fourth. Time—62 3-5 secs.

3.10—LEOPARDSTOWN GRAND PRIZE of 1,000 sovs., of which the second receives 100 sovs., and the third 50 sovs. For two-year-olds. 5 f.

Mr. D. D. Bulger's Dame Agnes, 8-5......D. Ward 0
Mr. F. Clarke's Heather, 8-5......W. Miles 0
(Winner trained by Colonel A. J. Blake.)

Betting—6 to 4 agst. Swift Marten, 7 to 4 CARDINAL'S RING, 7 to 1 Dame Agnes, 8 to 1 each Industrious and Some Pep, 100 to 8 Dohora, 50 to 1 any other.

Dohora jumped off in front of Cardinal's Ring, with Swift Marten, Some Pep, Industrious and Dione most prominent of the others. So they ran for nearly three furlongs, when Cardinal's Ring took up the running slightly in advance of Swift Marten and Dohora, with Some Pep and Industrious heading the others. Inside the distance Cardinal's Ring swerved and lost ground, but being straightened contrived to hold off the challenge of Industrious and Swift Marten, and won a fine race by a neck; a head divided second and third. Some Pep was fourth, Dione fifth, Dohora sixth, Elton seventh, Jollification eighth and Heather next.

After the race the Stewards inquired into the start. Having heard the explanation of Mr. Rutfledge, the starter, and the evidence of most of the jockeys, which in some respects was conflicting, they accepted the starter's explanation, but considered the start was not quite satisfactory.

3.40—THE TOWER PLATE of 100 sovs., of which the second receives 15 sovs. and the third 5 sovs. A weight for age flat race. 1 m.

Mr. A. Lowry's b. g. HEARTBURN, by Tredennis—Ingenue, 8-2......W. Rea 1

Col. Honner's Hesterinia, 4, 8-2......J. Putman 0
Mr. P. Corcoran's Chancerian, 3, 7-11 G. M'Quillan 0
(Winner trained by M. Dawson.)

Betting—6 to 4 agst. HEARTBURN, 2 to 1 Bonne Act, 4 to 1 Blue Look Out, 10 to 1 any other.

Chancerian was quickest away, but on settling down Heartburn made the running from Chancerian, Hesterinia, Ballymote, Bonne Act and Blue Look Out. Two furlongs from home Blue Look Out took second place, but failed to make any impression on Heartburn, who won in a canter by five lengths; eight lengths divided second and third. Heartburn was fourth and Ballymote next.

4.10—THE SHANKILL PLATE of 100 sovs., of which the second receives 15 sovs. and the third 5 sovs. A handicap.

Mr. H. F. Evans's b. f. ROYAL HEROINE, by Roi Hero—Bacile, 3, 8-3......D. Ward 1

AND CO.

No. 1.—CO. DUBLIN—In the great and romantic pre-Union days this lovely castle figured prominently in the local history of Co. Dublin. It was the home of an ancient family, the then representative of which was a notable figure in Irish social life. The caustic pen of Junius did not spare him, and the historians of the time busied their pens with references to the place and its owner. Deciding to sell, this owner having accepted an offer to purchase from another well-known Irishman, got sorry and sought to break the bargain. "I have changed my mind," he wrote, but "I never change mine" was the reply, and the castle and demesne passed into the ownership of a family whose titled representatives held it till quite recently. Situated about six miles from Dublin and half a mile from a railway station, its residential attractions are of the highest order. The demesne, 572 acres in all, is one of singular natural beauty, and includes a 14-acre lake and 169 acres of woodlands and gardens. The pasture lands, of over 400 acres, are noted for their rich feeding qualities, and produce for the current season a rental of £900. The castle is approached by an avenue quarter of a mile in length, and enjoys lovely views of the panorama stretching away to the Dublin Mountains. It has modern appointments, such as electric light, central heating, and telephone service, and is in every way suited to be the home of a wealthy and fastidious occupant. In its noble ballroom fair women and brave men, from the days of patch and powdered hair to the more practical, if less picturesque, twentieth century, have chased the glowing hours, and it is to be hoped that the castle will hold an honourable place in the social life of a prosperous and contented Ireland. It is in the centre of the finest sporting country, where hunting, racing, golf, fishing, and shooting can be enjoyed. This magnificent residential estate is held for ever free of rent. Inspection can be arranged with the agents, Messrs. James H. North and Co.

No. 2.—CO. KILDARE—Over two centuries ago—about the year 1722—an angry man mounted his horse in Dublin and rode—we may well imagine, furiously—along the quiet country roads that took him to a big house standing close to the River Liffey. He had travelled some eleven miles, and, with his passion unabated by the journey, he flung himself into the presence of an attractive young woman seated in one of the reception rooms of that house by the river. For love of him she had come from England to Ireland, but he had an older love, and, angered by some indiscretion of the younger lady, had ridden out from Dublin to overwhelm her with his wrath and to fling on the table before her the written evidence of her indiscretion. The man was Dean Swift, the woman Miss Van Homrigh ("Vanessa"). She sickened and died, and it is nearly two centuries since the Dean himself took with him to the grave the mystery of his relations with the other love, Stella. And still the castellated house by the river stands and keeps its memories. To those who seek exquisite natural charm, combined with romantic associations, the place offers a delightful home. Easy of access to the city by a good main road, and yet in rural surroundings of the most restful sort, with river scenery of enchanting loveliness, the place combines country quiet with convenience to the city in the happiest manner. It can be rented with about 25 acres, or the estate—part tenanted—can be purchased indemnified from superior rent. Orders to view from the agents, Messrs. J. H. North and Co.

No. 3.—CO. DUBLIN—The photographic view is of one of the most complete and up-to-date residences in the county, situated in the very heart of the greatest hunting district in Ireland. The meets of the Ward Union, Kildare, and Meath Hounds are all within easy reach, and the lover of the chase can gratify his or her taste to the full from this charming spot. Thousands of pounds have been judiciously expended, good taste guarding against any attempt at gaudiness, and the residence is in a condition to appeal to any seeker of a well-equipped, luxurious, and fashionably circumstanced home. The demesne is a small, but pretty, one of about 40 acres, and the gardens and grounds are a happy exhibition of art skilfully associated with natural beauty. A winter garden is an attractive feature of the residence. Two independent hot water systems, electric force pumps, dressingrooms with attached bathrooms, and offices that would gladden any lover of thoroughbred horses are among the advantages which the occupier of this high-class residence would enjoy. Inspection by arrangement with the agents, James H. North and Co.

No. 4.—CO. MEATH, near the borders of Co. Dublin—Somewhat less than half a century ago a wealthy English gentleman spending a holiday in Ireland was attracted by the residential charms of the district, and erected the very beautiful house, of which a view is given. Of comparatively recent date, and built regardless of expense, the residence embodies modern ideas, and is to-day in perfect structural condition. The internal arrangements are of the happiest, and make housekeeping both easy and inexpensive. Light and air have been secured, and the place is free of dark corners and subterranean passages. It stands in a lovely park, beautified by a lake, in which the angler will find plenty of sport. The sea is not far, and the important towns of Drogheda and Balbriggan are easily reached. The city itself is less than an hour by motor, and few places enjoy greater or more important conveniences of situation. It is in a famous hunting country, and the neighbourhood is one of Ireland's best social centres. The demesne contains over 260 statute acres, including rich fattening pastures. Well laid-out pleasure grounds, including two tennis courts, add to the attractions of this really desirable modern residential property. It is held for ever subject to a small terminable Land Commission annuity. Inspection by arrangement with the agents, James H. North and Co.

THE ABOVE ARE A SMALL SELECTION FROM THE LIST OF IMPORTANT RESIDENTIAL ESTATES THROUGHOUT IRELAND FOR SALE.

BRITISH GAMES AT STAMFORD BRIDGE.

RECORD JUMP BY LADY.

The Stamford Bridge ground, like most other sports arenas throughout the country, was affected by heavy rain yesterday, but, despite heavy going, some excellent performances were achieved in the British games. The ladies were particularly good. Miss M. A. Gunn, of the Mitcham A.C., jumped 18ft 3½ins., this being three inches better than the world's record, held by the Japanese girl, K. Hitoni, and 3½ inches better than her own British record. Miss V. Piercey ran ten miles on an out-and-home course in 1 hour 13 minutes, this being eight minutes faster than her own record. Guy Butler, although he won his heat in the Sprint, strained a leg, and did not contest the final. Neither did he make an attempt on record, as had been intended.

GREYHOUND RACING.

HORSE SHOW WEEK MEETING.

RECORD RUNNING BY BEADED BIDDY.

The largest attendance witnessed since the inaugural meeting patronised Shelbourne Park last night, when the opening heats of the big Horse Show Week programme were run off. Though the majority of the races were won easily, the times recorded were very fast, and in one instance a time record was broken. This was by Beaded Biddy, who won the first heat of the Metropolitan Stakes in 27 4-5 seconds, beating the previous best for the track by two-fifths of a second.

The most stylish performance of the night was the hurdling of Noble Grecian in the second heat of the Irish Champion Hurdle Race. Mr. Maxwell Arnott's dog was always favourite, and, jumping in perfect style, passed the line seven lengths in front of Bowling Green Boy, who was a good second favourite.

Cheap Trip won the first heat of the Hurdle Race, Springhill Light, an odds-on favourite, who had won the Open Hurdle Race on Saturday, coming a purler at the third obstacle. The winner jumped faultlessly throughout, and got the verdict two lengths from Royal Tyrant.

Mr. T. A. Morris's dog, What's That to You, who had won a race on Saturday, was installed a warm favourite for the first heat of the National Greyhound Racing Company's Stake, and well justified the confidence by winning by three lengths from Greencroft's Best. The latter was in front for more than half-way, but coming into the straight the winner took the lead to win easily. Sweet Potatoe won the second heat, beating Kiltaghan, on whom big odds were laid, by one and a half lengths. The winner, best away, was in front throughout. Another odds-on favourite in Advocate was beaten in the third heat, Wise Joe, the winner, leading throughout, passing the judge six lengths in front of Rathganly.

The most exciting race of the night was the second heat of the Metropolitan Cup, a great struggle up the straight between Misdeal and The Small Firm ending in a short head verdict for the former. Galbally Lass, who was a strong favourite, never flattered.

With only three favourites winning, backers had rather the worse of the deal with the layers.

To-night's programme will also consist of seven events, three heats of the N.G.R.C. Stakes, two of the Metropolitan Stakes, and two of the Champion Hurdle. Details:—

YACHTING.

WICKLOW REGATTA YESTERDAY.

MERCIA'S BRILLIANT WIN.

A finer day than yesterday never dawned, but the afternoon did not sustain the promise of the morning, and one or two fairly stiff showers swept over the Morrough between 4 and 5 p.m. to the great dismay of the thousands of holiday-makers. Neither lasted long, but the second drove many to shelter, and thinned the crowd considerably after. Still, the gathering at the regatta was remarkable, and there can be no doubt about the popularity of the fixture with the Bank Holiday public.

From a sailing point of view, the weather on the two preceding days was a handicap to the fixture. Only a few yachts were able to make the passage on Saturday owing to the strong head wind and lively sea. Once Killiney Bay was reached it was a plug all the way down the coast, and there were not a few who got as far as Bray Head, only to give it up, then returning back to re-start on the following day. Yet Sunday was very little better; perhaps it is truer to say it was no better, and again some had to put back, while others faced it out to arrive at Wicklow tired out, but content to have reached port.

Thus it was that the gathering yesterday morning at Wicklow was not half the size it might have been. It included Kismet and Espanola, of the larger division; Nirvana, Lil, Alethea, Mercia, Mavis, Sheela II., of the under 10 tons fleet; one 21-footer—viz., Innisfallen; one 17-footer—viz., Anita; the motor cruiser, Suzanne, and some boats of the Wharf S.C.

On their way down the coast were to be seen others who hoped to reach the regatta by an early start yesterday morning. Two 25-footers, for example, one 21-footer (Oola), one small cruiser (Kitsune), and two 17-footers—viz., Echo and Rita, in tow—and all reached Wicklow in time to take part in their matches.

When racing began at one o'clock there was a nice little breeze from S.W., and while this lasted—for about a couple of hours—all went well. It was always of a tricky order, but that did not matter while it held. Then it backed to E., and after that there was no following the vagaries. The racing felt the strain; luck was the decisive factor in most of the matches, and early finishes, as far as possible, were decided upon.

The most unlucky race was that for the 21-footers. It was delayed half an hour awaiting Oola, and then when she arrived Innisfallen apparently was not ready. The latter when she came out of harbour apparently did not hear the gun (one hour and a quarter after the fixed time), and eventually she allowed Oola away on her own. The latter was out of luck. She never held a breeze, and drifted round the course to be outside the time limit at the close.

Another unlucky race was that for boats of the Wharf S.C., who started also at the wrong time, and were held up for a lengthened spell becalmed off 5-mile point. It was noticeable for the appearance of two new 21ft. Bermudian rigged sail boats, and one of these, Paramatta (Mr. J. J. Long) was an easy winner.

In the larger cruisers' handicap Kismet had to give Espanola 3 min. each round. At the start it looked as if it would be a close race—theirs was a reaching course at the time—but, later on, Kismet drew away from the other and, as leading boat, got all the luck and eventually finished alone.

In the under 10 tons race the leading boat also had all the luck, and this best explained how Mercia led all day. Both Nirvana and Mavis lost heavily at the start, through a recall, and for a long while afterwards Mavis was drifting rather than sailing. She appeared to be coming hand over first after Mercia at the close of the first round, but again the latter drew away and for her to beat Mavis as she did is the best possible commentary upon the conditions which were prevailing.

Punctilio, sailed by Mr. Jack Stephens, gave Fodhla a good race. It was a pity that each had not a truer wind. The same remark applies to the 17-footers, in which class Rita, which had least luck at the start, came off best at the finish.

Mr. J. Comerford was officer of the day.

THE SWIMMING EVENTS.

The swimming events in connection with the Wicklow Regatta were held in the harbour, before a good attendance. Heavy rain at intervals somewhat marred the enjoyment of the spectators, but keen interest was manifested in the various contests to the end. The programme included ladies' and men's handicaps, events in swimming and diving, which were fairly well supported by the members of the metropolitan clubs.

Miss H. Heeney, of the Skerries Club, put up a good performance in winning the ladies' 50 yards race and the diving handicap. The 440 yards men's event produced a close finish, and was won by J. Allen, the Sandycove Club taking all three places. The programme concluded with an interesting water polo match between two well-matched teams, captained by Messrs. G. C. Higginbotham and J. Allen. COWES WEEK OPENS.

ROYAL LONDON Y.C.

Cowes Week opened yesterday under miserable conditions, there being heavy and persistent rain virtually throughout the day. In accordance with the usual custom, the first days racing was held under the auspices of the Royal London Yacht Club, which had provided a full programme, comprising five handicaps and three class races, for which a splendid entry was received. His Majesty the King sailed his second race this season in the Britannia, but the weather was not at all to her liking, the schooner winning easily. The wind was from the north-west, of light strength, and the sailing consisted mostly of reaching in the bigger events.

The chief race, which started at 10 o'clock, was open to yachts of over 160 tons. In this Mr. F. T. B. Davis's Westward and Sir Mortimer Singer's Lulworth were at scratch, allowing His Majesty's cutter Britannia, Lord Waring's White Heather, and Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock, 2 mins. 36 secs. each, over the 39 miles course. Shamrock and Lulworth led at the gun, followed by Westward, Britannia and White Heather. They reached down to the Solent Bank Buoy against the tide, and back eastwards through Cowes Roads, where Westward had secured the lead from Shamrock, White Heather being third, Lulworth next, and Britannia last. They all had Yankee jib topsails aloft after rounding the North-east Middle Buoy. They reached home for the first round, where they were timed:—

	H.	M.	S.
Westward	12	28	42
Shamrock	12	33	2
White Heather	12	33	24
Britannia	12	39	56

The schooner held on to her commanding lead during the second circuit, and White Heather overhauled and passed Shamrock, and they finished in that order, the schooner winning by the comfortable margin of 6 mins. 18 secs. Finishing times:—

	H.	M.	S.
Westward (winner)	2	58	32
White Heather (2nd prize)	3	7	23
Shamrock	3	9	3
Lulworth	3	10	36
Britannia	3	15	50

PRINCE OF WALES'S CUP.

The race for this trophy, offered by His Royal Highness for competition by boats of the 14-foot National Dinghy Class, attracted enormous interest at Cowes yesterday. A total entry of 41 was received, and there were only four non-starters. The start was made from the R.Y.S. Castle, the course being a distance of about 10 sea miles. The fleet of little boats presented a splendid spectacle as they crossed the line in close company when the starting gun was fired at 11.45.

The finishing times were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Irex II.—Mr. Bruce Atkey (winner)	1	48	2
Radiant—Mr. Uffa Fox (2nd prize)	1	53	55
Vamoosa—Mr. Morgan Giles (3rd prize)	1	55	18
Query—Mr. C. Collyer (4th prize)	1	55	20
Fox Hunter—Mr. Cherry Downes (5th prize)	1	55	30

MOTOR CYCLING.

THE GLENGARIFFE TRIAL ENDS.

The two days' reliability trial of the Dublin and District Motor Cycle and Light Car Club came to an end yesterday evening, when the survivors of the run of four hundred and forty-four miles reached Inchicore Bridge. All of those who reached Glengariffe on the first day left Eccles' Hotel yesterday morning, and after passing through Kenmare, they entered the most difficult section of the trial, the non-stop run to the top of Windy Gap via Gowlane Hill and Galway's Bridge. Reaching Killarney, there was an hour's stop for a second breakfast, after which the competitors proceeded to Limerick, where there was another stop for lunch. From Limerick the main road was followed to Dublin through Nenagh and Maryborough.

The following reached the final check at Inchicore:—F. Holmes, 3½ h.p. Triumph; A. Robinson, 8 h.p. Zenith and sidecar; M. Neale, 3½ h.p. Norton and sidecar; H. Dixon, 3½ h.p. A.J.S.; G. E. P. Hussey, 3½ h.p. Norton; P. Ruddock, 8 h.p. New Imperial and sidecar; G. E. J. Stapleton, 3½ h.p. Triumph; Thomas Wogan, 3½ h.p. Norton; W. O'Neill, 4 h.p. Norton and sidecar; J. G. McEntagart, 11.4 h.p. Citroen car; R. P. Tamplin, 11.4 h.p. Citroen car; W. D. Layng, 11 h.p. Standard car; G. M. Mitchell, 14 h.p. Standard car; D. Allen, 8 h.p. Morgan cycle car; V. V. "Tiny," 10 h.p. Trojan car; P. F. Mooney, 4 h.p. Norton and sidecar.

The weather conditions yesterday were not any improvement on those of Saturday, heavy showers being encountered between Glengariffe and Kenmare. This caused the non-stop section to Windy Gap to be on the heavy side, but all of the competitors got through it, although more than one lost marks. All of the motor cyclists who left Glengariffe completed the journey, but Mr. A. Breslan's Bean car was in a collision with a hay cart during the day, and had to retire owing to an injury to its radiator. A secret check was taken in the last section of the journey.

CYCLING.

THE IRISH ROAD CLUB "HUNDRED."

The annual race for the championship of the Irish Road Club was held yesterday by the Southern Centre of the club. Ten entries were received, and, in addition, there were two tandem crews who competed for standard medals.

A new course was used. Most of it lay along the main road from Dublin to Galway, starting near Leixlip Bridge, and going as far west as Rochford Bridge, with a detour from Enfield to Edenderry and back.

The race for the championship resulted as follows:—

1—W. J. Finn ...... 5 hrs. 37 mins. 0 secs.
2—J. O'Toole ...... 5 hrs. 49 mins. 27 secs.
3—K. A. Leedom ... 6 hrs. 6 mins. 30 secs.
4—T. J. Molloy ... 6 hrs. 33 mins. 0 secs.

Favourable weather was experienced by competitors for the first seventy miles of the journey, but from that point rain fell in torrents, and only the above four finished. Finn did a fine ride, and won a gold standard medal, O'Toole getting a silver, and the other two finishers bronze medals.

J. J. Bennett and J. Sweeney went for standard medals on a tandem. They do not seem to have recovered from the effects of their recent twenty-four hours' ride, and retired at 72½ miles.

The brothers D. J. and J. A. Galavan, on a tandem, secured silver standard medals with a good ride of 5 hours 29 mins. 20 secs., missing the gold standard by a narrow margin.

The mode of the moment.

THE well-dressed gentleman on the left is no mere figment of a clever artist's imagination, but is drawn from life, the subject having worn a typical Seale-tailored suit. Its attractiveness well justifies the growing popularity of a Special Seale Service—a made-to-measure suit that is tailored by machine rather than by hand. This partial substitution of the machine for the tailor, while in no way jeopardising correct cut and perfect fit, enables you to own one of these admirable suits for as little as 6 guineas.

Seales complete Tailoring and Outfitting services meet every Gentleman's requirements.

This is an old-established and very valuable Licensed Business, and the premises have very large yard, stables, garage, and ample interior accommodation for the extensive trade carried on therein for over 50 years.

LOT 2.—All that Shop and Premises, held in perpetuity at the low annual rent of £2 15s. 2d., recently built by the deceased in Bridge street, Dromore, together with the goodwill of the old-established Cloth and General Drapery business carried on therein. LUCAN HOUSE FOR SALE.

LUCAN HOUSE AND DEMESNE. 46 ACRES.

THE MANOR AND CASTLE OF LUCAN appear to have passed into the possession of the Sarsfield family early in the XVIth century. In 1629 a Patent was granted by KING CHARLES I. for delivery of the Property of SIR WILLIAM SARSFIELD OF LUCAN, in the County of Dublin, to WILLIAM, HIS GRANDSON AND HEIR. THIS WILLIAM SARSFIELD (who was the elder brother of the celebrated GENERAL PATRICK SARSFIELD, who negotiated the Treaty of Limerick and fell at the battle of Landen), married MARY CROFTS, DAUGHTER OF KING CHARLES II., AND SISTER OF JAMES, DUKE OF MONMOUTH. Their only daughter, CHARLOTTE, was her father's heiress-at-law.

PATRICK SARSFIELD seized the estate of WILLIAM SARSFIELD, which of right belonged to WILLIAM'S DAUGHTER, Charlotte. Patrick Sarsfield was attainted of treason, and in consequence of his attainder the Crown seized the estate. BUT KING WILLIAM, by Royal Letters dated 26th April, 1696, on the petition of CHARLOTTE SARSFIELD, ordered it to be restored to her, which was accordingly done.

CHARLOTTE SARSFIELD married the RIGHT HON. AGMONDISHAM VESEY, and the Mansion House and Demesne have since that time remained in the possession of the VESEY COLTHURST FAMILY.

The present Mansion House was built in or about the year 1780 to replace the ancient Castle of Lucan.

HUNTING WITH WARD UNION, MEATHS, KILDARES. SHOOTING, FISHING. Dublin seven miles. Polo, Phœnix Park. HOUSE CENTRAL HEATED AND ELECTRIC LIGHTED. SHELTERED BY FINE OLD TIMBER.

WELL-ARRANGED PLEASURE GROUNDS and well-stocked gardens; all in good repair. CLEAR POSSESSION.
